Odello property still center of controversy in CV master plan

By DAVID LELAND

PERHAPS THE most volatile issue facing the Monterey County Board of Supervisors in its first consideration of the Carmel Valley Master Plan will be the possible exclusion of the Odello property from the plan's sphere.

On Nov. 12, the county planning commission, in a surprise decision, approved 5-3 a motion to remove the Odello property from the master plan, and with it the 162-unit residential complex, restaurant and farmer's market which the Odellos have fought for during the past 24 years.

The board of supervisors will consider the issue at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 25, in the supervisors chambers in the courthouse in Salinas.

For Bruna Odello, the exclusion of her 134-acre artichoke ranch from the plan was a happy moment. The Odellos have contended that they are already under the auspices of the California Local Coastal Plan and the Carmel Area Land Use Plan, plus the overall Monterey County General Plan. These, they claim, already offer strict regulations regarding building and environmental concerns.

Odello, after the commission's approval of the Odello exclusion, remained optimistic about the board of supervisors following suit.

"I think that justice will be done," she said. "Nobody gives laundry without a ticket." Odello was referring to her fears that the Odellos would be getting the short end of the stick if the master plan was further held up due to unforeseen problems and they could still not build.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, however, who has hopes of building a floodgate through the Odello property on the east side of Highway 1, vowed to stand fast in her fight to include the Odello ranch in the final master plan.

The flood project would entail lowering the existing levee to facilitate water flow over about 90 acres of Odello property.

"The Odello property is part of the Carmel Valley whether the owners realize it or not," she said, in a telephone interview after the planning commission meeting. "I can't see any one property owner, even the Odello family, holding the Carmel Valley Master Plan hostage."

Strasser Kauffman said she is also sure that without the Odello property included in the plan, the document will not stand the test of the courts.

Superior Court Judge Richard Silver twice, in 1980 and 1985, remanded the master plan back to county planners for further study. Strasser Kauffman speculated that without inclusion of the Odello property Silver would again veto the draft.

"I want to make certain the plan is acceptable to the courts," she said.

When contacted Thursday, Silver declined to comment on the Odello property or the master plan in general, but said the court would act as quickly as possible on the plan when it is received.

Strasser Kauffman said the board of supervisors plans to have the document completed by the end of the year, with its final hearing on the master plan scheduled for Dec. 9. She denied, however that she will do any active lobbying to plead her case to fellow supervisors.

"I don't put any pressure on my colleagues," she said. "I campaigned on that (Odello exclusion) position. They (the remaining supervisors) will have to make up their own minds."

IT SEEMED clear that the planning commission had no intention of excluding the Odello land from the master plan as it began the three-hour hearing by taking inventory of the more than 80 revisions to the draft of the master plan.

But after examining the confusing status of the Odello property and trying to force it into the plan, five

Catch a wave

THIS UNIDENTIFIED surfer found a perfect wave during a hot spell at Carmel Beach last week. Surfers are just one of the many types of people that regularly use Carmel Beach, which draws to it not only a large number of tourists, but residents and others living on the Monterey Peninsula, a concern to the Carmel City Council, which will determine whether to go ahead with the second phase of an ambitious beach restoration project (which includes a landscaped walkway) along Scenic Road at its Dec. 2 meeting. Two residents take opposing viewpoints to the project in commentaries starting on page 4. (Holly McFarland photo.)

Water conservation?

Dear Editor:

The residents of Carmel are being asked to increase our conservation of water by city hall so that the self-imposed building moratorium can be lifted, and development of Carmel continue. I feel that it is important to examine the current water conservation program and what the impacts are of water conservation on the future of Carmel.

The term "conservation" is generally used to mean either 1. the reduction of current usage of a resource for future use, or 2. preservation of a resource. In our case, and assuming no increase in our water allocation or water supplies, if Carmel residents reduced water consumption today and the amount of water saved would be reserved for our use in times of water shortages, then a water conservation plan would make sense to me.

If, however, Carmel residents choose to reduce present levels of water consumption and as a result of such a reduction in water consumption the interim building moratorium is lifted, we can expect that some percentage of the water saved will be used by new development. If development is allowed to continue until Carmel again reaches 100 percent of its water allocation, have we really conserved any water? In my opinion, the answer is no; we have simply redistributed our limited water resources from current residents and businesses to new residents and new (or expanded) businesses and other development.

While I strongly support conservation of our environment and our natural resources, the current water "conservation" plan appears to be more of water redistribution plan, than true conservation of a limited resource.

Finely played play

Dear Editor:

I feel obligated to say that not all viewers agreed with your reviewer of the latest play to be presented by the Staff Players at the Forest Theater "in the ground," the small and pleasantly intimate room at the back of the famous but now chilly Outdoor Forest Theater.

It is George Bernard Shaw's Candida, a wonderfully tongue-in-cheek dissertation on the relationship between a smug and self-righteous preacher-type and his beautiful and disarmingly honest wife. Your critic suggested that the hero was not the vigorous young preacher she had seen in the part before, but a more mature character, thus changing the impact of the part. For me, to have the husband a few years older than the wife was entirely appropriate, and he certainly played the part with great skill and very human emotions.

The play is full of Shaw's usual biting wit — it is a fine play, finely played, and a fine way to celebrate the Children's Experimental Theater's 20th year of activity in Monterey County. (The Staff Players is the adult arm of the children's dramatic training school led by Marcia Hovick, and headquartered at the Indoor Theater.)

Nobody who enjoys "romantic comedy" should miss it!

Hellbent on development

Dear Editor:

There is a passage in the zoning law of the city of Carmel. This Statement of Intent says, "The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is determined to be primarily, essentially and predominantly a residential city wherein business and commerce have in the past, are now, and are proposed to be in the future subordinated to its residential character."

These words were intoned by Gunnar Norberg several years ago when he was mayor. Around that time a traffic count showed some 25,000 vehicles entering Carmel every day. Obviously Carmel is a professional village. There are changes proposed that will make it more so. Previous councils were intent on some containment, but the present one is hellbent for more development. Besides being a further violation of the Statement of Intent, let me ask where is the water coming from if Carmel already used its limit?

Experience worth savoring

Dear Editor:

Surely there is no more beautiful outdoor stadium in the world than that at Carmel High. And to be there on a bright warm Saturday afternoon and watch the football team play a traditional rival is an experience worth savoring. Even if Carmel loses, the disappointment is only temporary. And if they win — as they did on a recent Saturday when they played King City — the result can cure colds and stop wars.

Football people are friendly individuals and those in Carmel seem more so than others; and while long faces and frowns can reflect the play on the field, all is forgotten when the game is over and good memories crowd out the bad.

The blue gray hills stretching east along Carmel Valley are dressed in their best fall colors and their beauty is most breathtaking. Lose your temper at a poor call by one of the hard-working officials and these majestic hills shame you.

Close your eyes in an unguarded moment and ghosts may intrude. Just there near the west goal Carmel had the ball, had only a few seconds to play and King City was ahead by less than a touchdown. Sneaky Danny Holman faded back, faked a run, popped a pass over the middle and a Carmel player — was it Hermanson? — ran almost the length of the field to win the game. Ralph Juarez once scored six touchdowns against Gilroy. He is also the only player who could out-bound a mountain goat. I have seen him run full out down across the bleacher seats, his feet touching no more than two or three times before reaching the bottom.

Down on the field Coach Hare watches the play with parental concern while above him on the spectator's walk quarterback Hare studies the plays and compares them to those he called a few dozen years ago.

Your eyes refocus as Iron Man Rene Diaz blasts through the opposition and scores a touchdown. Not since Mike Paul has anyone that size stood out as he does. And how about the Monterey game this year! Will anyone ever forget that one? It just about made our season.

It's nice to go to other stadiums about the league and watch the play...but it's not the same. The lights are garish, the night people are not as friendly, the natural beauty is less and it is often downright cold. And besides, where else may we look up from the play on the field and have our attention directed to the Fish Ranch across the valley and be told that Princess Margaret is staying there?

Losing on the Carmel field is often better than winning elsewhere.

A little rain must fall

Dear Editor:

As the saying goes "Into every life a little rain must fall," however to a few speakers, daring to question the mayor on administration policies, it was a deluge!

One unfortunate aftermath of the "Town Meeting" could be to discourage those who already find public speaking an ordeal, and so the community suffers, from less public participation.

Please reflect, Mr. Eastwood, on at least one campaign promise made while you were being swept into office on a "sea of tea," namely courtesy and a fair hearing to all!

Water and rain barrels

Dear Editor:

All the recent fuss about shortage of water, and building ban in Carmel particularly, is puzzling to those who own and operate cistern systems. Since quality drinking water is used for less than 10 percent of the water company's delivery to households, residence owners may look to rainfall off roofs to satisfy the bulk of lawn and horticulture water needs.

In this view, urbanites on the Monterey Peninsula could gain new insight to ease the water allocation constraints and build up their own water reserve storage on their own premises. I refer to an article appearing in Sunset magazine, November, 1986, "Here Come the Cisterns Again." ("Why? To conserve water, to save money, to capture high-quality rainwater.") In five pages different rain catching systems by home owners are described in western states, with two local cisterns in Pacific Grove and Pebble Beach. These latter systems have been in service since the 1976-77 drought. Reference is made to the State Department of Water Resources DWR Bulletin 213 with descriptions of small-scale water catching systems.

Maybe city planners could benefit their cities by requesting volunteer adoption of some of these methods to augment drinking water sources. The cistern technique has a long history in the "civilized world" and has been deemed high feasibility in the Monterey County's master water conservation plan.

Needed improvement

Dear Editor:

As regular walkers on Scenic Drive we are very much in favor of a beach walkway.

Yes, this improvement - not "luxury" - will be costly, but this is offset by: more personal safety for walkers and joggers and protect the banks from excessive thoughtless use, causing severe erosion. The elimination of a few parking spaces is justified, persons enjoying this beautiful scenery from an automobile will not be timorous of striking a Homo sapiens.

I have heard that Mayor Eastwood has lieutenants placed all over the city hall to carry out his aims. I have just read his new "Mayor's Report" column in The Pine Cone. I have concluded he needs more lieutenants. Or different ones.

Telephone poll shows city favors beach plan

CARMEL RESIDENTS favor the Carmel Beach Restoration Project Phase II by a 69 percent to 31 percent count according to an informal and unscientific telephone poll conducted by the The Carmel Pine Cone.

Pollsters called 143 Carmel residents, 99 said they favored the project, while 44 were opposed to it. The Carmel City Council is scheduled to vote on the project at its Dec. 2 meeting.

Residents were asked: "The Carmel Beach Restoration Project calls for a landscaped walkway with benches and access stairways along Scenic Road, but will result in the loss of 42 out of an existing 146 parking spaces. The total cost is estimated to be a minimum of $750,000, partially funded by state grant money and from the city's general fund hostelry tax. Do you favor or oppose such a project?"

Those called (if they questioned it) were also told that the state grant funds could total about $200,000 and that the city would pick up the rest of the costs.

The poll parallels another telephone poll conducted by a group of residents during the week of Oct. 27, before a town hall meeting was held concerning the project. Results of that poll were revealed at the meeting Nov. 3.

In that poll 83 percent (93 out of 112) favored the project, 11 percent (12 people) opposed it, and 5 percent (6 people) had no opinion.

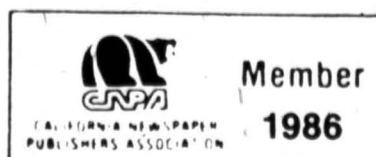

In that poll, however, 65 percent (73 out of 112) said they were "familiar" with the project, but were not asked to elaborate.

Those unfamiliar were read a brief description: "Basically the plan calls for beautifying the area and narrowing Scenic Road to allow for a walking path on the ocean side of Scenic, and adding planting and benches."

The Pine Cone poll was conducted Nov. 14 through Nov. 17.

Kinnoull estate presents problems to planners

By NANCY HILLS

WHEN COUNTESS Claude Kinnoull died a year and half ago, she left Carmel with more than memories of an almost legendary woman.

She also left the city with the problem of developing a specific plan for her estate lands, bordered on the north and south by Junipero Avenue and Mission Trails Park and the east and west end of Torres Street and east by 11th Avenue.

In her will, the Countess left the her lands primarily to animal welfare charities, according to Jack Martin of Carmel Realty, the realtors representing the Kinnoull property.

The estate consists of three large parcels which now contain a total of 15 lots of record. The property contains mature trees, drainage problems, difficult traffic access and a large late-1920s mansion in a natural park-like setting.

The Carmel Planning Commission will also have to consider whether the city or the developers should pay $37,000 for street improvements necessary for development and an unspecified amount for a drainage system that would run through an important part of the subdivision.

The commission conducted its first workshop on the property Nov. 5. Two other major projects, the R-4 and Louise Bennett specific plans, published in the Nov. 13 Carmel Pine Cone, were also discussed at the meeting.

No decision was made on the property development during the meeting in which members of Carmel Realty presented their plans for the area. The commissioners requested a map of the surrounding area as well as the estate itself to help them determine how best to access the area to traffic.

John Mills, a London-based administrator of the estate, has been working with the city planning staff to establish zoning rules for the property.

Recently, Carmel attorney George Walker and Carmel Realty have joined in the discussions as local representatives of the estate.

The representatives of the estate have asked to increase the number of lots to 16 or 17 and plan to keep the house intact. According to Martin, at 16 lots, the property was appraised at $3 million.

THE ESTATE consists of basically three

THE COUNTESS Claude Kinnoull estate, located on the south end of Torres Street between Junipero Avenue and Mission Trails Park, is one of three specific plans the Carmel Planning Commission is currently working on. The countess bequeathed her estate, including the 1920s mansion shown separate sections: a 50,000 square foot portion between Junipero Avenue on the western edge of the estate and where Torres Street would run if it did not dead end at the property; a "main" section, more than an acre, where the home is situated; and a separate 28,000 square foot section next to Mission Trails Park.

The two main concerns the commission had while reviewing the proposals by estate representatives were maintaining as many trees as possible and insuring adequate traffic ingress and egress with minimum impact on the surrounding neighborhood.

Each parcel had its own problems and challenges for the commissioners to consider.

The first section is completely undeveloped, which allowed the growth of many significant pines, sycamores and oaks. It also serves as a water runoff area for Junipero Avenue, a problem the countess addressed by building a redwood drainage flume that winds through the trees.

The 50,000 square foot section is legally divided into 12 and a half lots of record, all of which the estate representatives would like to see developed.

The proposed plan is to extend Torres Street to meet 11th Avenue, separating the first section from the main house parcel.

Extension of the street would allow access along the 12 lots and traffic could flow through Torres Street and turn up 11th Avenue to Junipero Avenue. The currently single land, rustic 11th Avenue, would be dead-ended just past the junction.

Jim Winterbotham of Carmel Realty asked the planning commission to decide who should pay for the paving of the streets. Present estimates, Winterbotham said, put the cost at $17,000 for Torres Street and $20,000 for 11th Avenue.

"We hoped the city would pay for the paving," Winterbotham told the commissioners, but no decision was made on the subject.

Development of the 12 lots would require the removal of a number of large trees on the site, including a oak that spreads out 20 or 30 feet. Many, like the oak, are in path of the Torres Street.

To help reduce the amount of trees that would have to be destroyed, Planning Director Diane White suggested the roadway might "meander" through the grove rather than make a straight line.

Another suggestion, from Commissioner Carla Ramsey, was to create larger lots on the Torres Street side of the development and transfer the density lost there to the more developed Junipero Street side.

City Engineer Clayton Neill said the redwood flume that carries runoff from Junipero Avenue has "a lot of character," but would still have to be replaced. Neill suggested an enclosed drainage system.

No decision was made on any of these items as they came before the commission, though the commissioners agreed that Planning Director White's and Ramsey's suggestions should be studied.

The main section with the house is currently legally divided into two lots, the line of which runs right through the home.

Carmel Realty asked that the commission consider re-subdividing the parcel into two or three lots, leaving the house intact. Currently, the lot is legally divided into two lots, but the lot line runs right through the home. As before, no decision was made on the lot line adjustment, but it will be considered in future workshops.

Carmel Realty suggested that the 28,000 square foot third section, adjacent to Mission Trails Park, be divided into two large parcels.

Originally, Winterbotham said, they hoped the city might be interested in acquiring the property for the park. However, at the last city council meeting, Winterbotham said, it was made quite clear the council "was not interested."

Dahlstrand suggested a scenic easement, like the one placed on other properties around the park, might alleviate the impact of houses in that area.

Access was one problem the commissioners encountered, and various solutions, such as a private drive from Flanders Way, were suggested.

The commissioners requested a map of the development in the surrounding area to work on a plan.

Hacienda gets liquor OK; seniors complex put on hold

By NANCY HILLS

A LIQUOR license, a residential care facility, tow trucks and a studio/gallery appeal all topped the Carmel Planning Commission agenda Nov. 12.

Jack Brushert, owner of Hacienda Mexican Restaurant, won unanimous approval from the planning commission to sell hard liquor, but was denied an extension of hours along with the permit.

The commission also continued a master use permit review on an ambulatory residential care facility to replace the Surf Tides Inn, denied a request to change a use permit granted by the previous planning commission to the Lynn Lupetti Gallery and decided that a tow truck working out of a residential district was an inappropriate activity for that zone.

Brushert was granted a change in his operating permit that allows him to sell hard liquor at his Mexican restaurant located on the southwest corner of Dolores Street and Fifth Avenue. However, the commission denied an attached request to change his hours of operation from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.

While considering the liquor license, Commissioner Ed Hicks asked Brushert "Isn't that hard to get?"

"Well, there are four available (from state Alcohol and Beverage Control board) but what it is expensive," Brushert answered.

To grant the use permit change and comply with the city ordinances on the sale of liquor, the commission had to find that alcoholic beverages would not be served from a "public bar," food would be served during the hours alcohol is served, there could be no separate cocktail lounge area, the business is primarily an eating place and alcohol would only be served at dining tables.

In his application, Brushert stated he would remove the bar stools so people could not sit down and order from there. Brushert's plans also show he removed a wall between the dining area and the bar, alleviating the appearance of a separate cocktail section.

Because the city has restricted increased water use by commercial enterprises, the commission also had to find that the application would not create an "intensification of use" in the business. Planning Director Diane White also suggested that the commissioners take into account the restaurant is located next to a residential district.

"Seems to me, four hours (from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.) of time really is an intensification of use. If it was one hour, I wouldn't quibble about impacts on water use," Commissioner Olof Dahlstrand said.

Commissioner Bruce Roberts, however, questioned the requirement that food be served with drinks, stating he felt it was an "unreasonable condition."

"I don't think someone should have to buy tacos to order a martini," he added.

Commissioner Fred Keeble, however, said he believed that removal of the stools was sufficient and Commissioner Ed Hicks pointed out that the Clam Box restaurant has a bar, but customers cannot stand there and order for themselves.

"I know," Hicks said. "I stood there and was asked to sit down."

Brushert said in order to stay in compliance with the ordinance, he would have drink orders taken by waitresses or waiters.

The commissioners agreed the floor plan was in keeping with the conditions of the ordinance, but all agreed the extension of hours would be an "intensification of use" for the business and unanimously approved the change in the use permit to permit liquor sales without an increase in hours.

COMMISSIONERS CONTINUED until Dec. 3 an application for a residential care facility to replace the Surf Tides Inn on the northeast corner of Mission Street and Fifth Avenue. The application was continued to allow the architect more time to bring in additional drawings.

Mary Klienbardt, representing the developers of the project, told the commissioners the 16-unit motel would be replaced by a 30-room residential care facility for ambulatory patients. The building would include an underground garage for parking.

One problem the commissioners would have to resolve, according to Planning Director White, is the question of density. There is no city standard on density for this type of facility, White explained, though it is an allowed business in the zone.

White said that 30 rooms plus the common areas would make the density of the building 119 units per acre, much higher than any other density in the city.

Klienbardt told the commission the new care facility would not be the same as Carmel Inn for Seniors, "but would maintain the same excellent standards" set by that complex.

Roberts expressed concern that the increased number of units on the busy corner would add to its congestion. Commissioner Carla

City council meeting reset for Dec. 1

CARMEL'S EMERGENCY water ordinances will be discussed Dec. 1 at a special city council meeting. The special meeting, originally scheduled for Nov. 24, has been cancelled due to administrative problems.

The Carmel City Council will meet at 8 a.m. Monday, Dec. 1, in the council chambers, located in city hall on the east side of Monte Verde Street between Ocean and Seventh avenues.

The agenda includes both the addressing of Carmel's emergency water situation and the appointment of seven members to the recreation commission.

Currently, there are two urgency ordinances in Carmel which concern water consumption issues. One ordinance allows only construction deemed not to increase water usage, while the other attempts to set up a 10 percent water reserve over the next five years. It is hoped this will give the city a cushion in assuring that water consumption does not exceed its total allocation.

The council will also meet in a closed session to discuss pending litigation and personnel matters.

Carmel needs a beach walkway

By LINDSAY HANNA

CARMEL RESIDENTS young and old love their beach with a passion. Recently an old friend of my mother's died at age 103. A resident of Carmel for more than 50 years, she credited her longevity to daily walks in her bare feet on the beach and in shoes along Scenic Road when winter sand loss made the beach walk impossible. The hundreds of children on the beach on a warm, sunny day include many children and grandchildren of Carmel residents. So what does the Carmel Beach Restoration Project, Phase II, mean to Carmel residents?

First, some background. During the winter of 1982-83, the California coastline was battered by a series of unusually severe storms. At Carmel, storm waves and heavy rainwater runoff resulted in extensive shoreline damage. Most of the stairs from Scenic Road to the beach were damaged or destroyed. The beach bluffs were extensively eroded. This erosion resulted in the loss of many large Monterey Cypress trees and other natural plantings.

Phase I, which has been completed, included emergency work and the installation of 3 to 5-ton granite boulders anchored into the bedrock underlying the beach at the base of the bluffs. Also, the upgrading of the storm drainage system along Scenic Road.

Phase II, the project currently before the Carmel City Council for approval, is to include the rebuilding of the damaged beach access stairs and the revegetation of the eroded beach bluffs. Also included is a pedestrian walkway between Scenic Road and the beach side of the bluffs.

The design plan recommended by the Carmel Beach Task Force (composed of city residents), after many hours of discussion and public meetings, included the following:

1. Pedestrian Path

Create an informal pedestrian path along the top of the bluffs — separate from auto and bicycle traffic on Scenic Road.

This walkway protects both the pedestrians from automobiles (a formidable threat to safety on a sunny summer or weekend day) and protects the landscaping on the bluffs from the walkers (note the scruffy appearance on the top of the bluffs right now). It will be esthetically placed to blend with the plantings on the bluffs and designed to lead to stairways, thus discouraging vertical access over fragile slopes. Some parking spaces on Scenic Road will be sacrificed.

Concern has been expressed about the impact on Carmel residents of the loss of 42

CARMEL'S SCENIC Road running alongside Carmel Beach is heavily used daily by both tourists and residents alike. The Carmel City Council will be considering at its Dec. 2 meeting whether to go ahead with the

Carmel doesn't need a beach walkway

By HOWARD C. NIEMAN, JR.

PHASE II Of the Carmel Beach Restoration Project is another in a long line of controversial and expensive city projects. In determining whether we need this project, two questions should be addressed: (1) does this project serve the interests of the community, and (2) do the benefits of this particular project justify its $750,000 cost to the taxpayer?

The beach serves two distinct functions. Unquestionably, it is one of the most scenic areas in California and needs to be protected as a scenic and community resource. The beach area is also widely used as a recreational area by pedestrians, joggers, and others who enjoy the magnificent views afforded of Carmel Bay from the bluffs along Scenic Road.

The primary goals of the proposed project are to increase public access to the beach, provide a safe and scenic pedestrian walkway, and landscape the bluffs and walkway areas. I have serious doubts that the proposed project will fulfill these objectives in a manner consistent with the desire of Carmel residents to maintain the natural character of the beach area.

For example, the proposed pedestrian walkway is only five to six feet wide and consists of a crushed granite surface. I assume that all pedestrians (and perhaps joggers as well) will need to stay within the walkway because of the attendant reduction in the width of Scenic Road; but I question whether a five-foot walkway is sufficient. On the one hand, the Beach Task Force seeks to encourage pedestrian use of Scenic Road, yet then confines everyone to a narrow (and perhaps overcrowded) walkway. The Beach Task Force also indicates that Scenic Road will continue as a "mixed use street" for pedestrians, joggers, bicyclists, and vehicles despite the new walkway and a variable 5 to 45 percent reduction in street width. What then is the purpose of the walkway?

In looking at the artist renderings of the project, I was struck by the similarity between the project and the beach walkway in Pacific Grove. While the Pacific Grove walkway is attractive, it has changed the entire character of the area and raises the fundamental question of should the natural qualities of the shoreline be diminished in favor of a contemporary promenade designed for public convenience?

ANOTHER UNRESOLVED problem is the excessive level of noise along Scenic Road from car radios. I find the noise level along Scenic Road very annoying, and not in keeping parking spaces. Right now, on warm, sunny weekends and summer days, all of the parking spaces on Scenic Road are quickly occupied, and San Antonio plus the side streets receive the overflow. The elimination of some parking on Scenic does not change this pattern, it merely speeds it up.

To quote from the City of Carmel's General Plan: "The primary purpose of the walkway is to protect the bluffs and plants from erosion and damage due to short-cuts..." Also: "Another important purpose of the scenic walkway is to provide a safe beach promenade which Carmel's population can enjoy."

The 1985 City of Carmel residents' survey showed that some two-thirds of the people visit the beach area at least weekly. A very high number do so to walk. Thus the proposed walkway should meet the needs of a high percentage of Carmel's residents.

2. Beach Access

Restore beach stairways lost during winter storm damage. Allow sufficient width for two-way pedestrian movement.

The handsome wooden stairs were in place by July 4, 1986. This important need has been almost completely satisfied.

3. Landscaping

Provide landscaping to improve erosion control in the bluffs and improve visual appearance. Drought-tolerant, native species or natural-looking plants should be used.

Carmel's mile-long, beautiful white sand beach is one of the most scenic in the world. Most will agree that the bluff area should be informally landscaped to enhance this priceless asset. Also, without the plantings, winter rains will create serious erosion which will threaten the safety of Scenic Road.

4. Facilities

Well-screened trash containers, viewing benches, drinking fountains and wash-off areas should be included where appropriate.

Public use of the beach (whether residents or tourists) requires the existence of trash containers, benches, drinking fountains and wash-off areas. Remember the grandchildren!

THE COST of Phase II — estimated at $750,000 — is well within the financial resources of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea and its taxpayers. This amount is now included in the city's budgeted Capital Improvements Program and evenly divided between 1986-87 and 1987-88. This amount does not push total capital funding for these years above the levels existing for the prior five years.

In addition the city council has approved a grant application to the California Coastal Conservancy which is expected to provide at least $200,000 for the Phase II project. If received, Carmel's financial obligation described above will be proportionately reduced.

In November, 1983 the city council approved an increase in the hostelry tax from 8 to 10 percent. This increase brings to the city more than $300,000 per year and was primarily earmarked for the Beach Restoration Project. It essentially funded Phase I and should cover much of Phase II.

In conclusion, it is the strong feeling of a majority of Carmel residents that our beach and its environs are one of our greatest community assets. Phase II represents an affordable and well-conceived plan to repair past storm damage, enhance the area for use by our citizens and to maintain the stunning beauty of our western shore.

(Lindsay Hanna, a retired insurance executive, first came to Carmel in 1953 to visit his future wife. The Hannas honeymooned in Carmel and often vacationed here — even when living on the east coast. They bought a home on San Antonio in 1974 and moved there permanently two years ago. Hanna represents a group of residents who strongly support the Carmel Beach Restoration Project.)

Why Carmel doesn't need a walkway along Scenic Road

The proposed project will also eliminate 42 parking spaces on Scenic Road between Eighth and Santa Lucia avenues. Unless we assume that people will abandon driving to the beach unless they can park along Scenic Road (which I doubt), beach parking will simply relocate to San Antonio Avenue and Carmelo Street. Instead of confining the existing parking and traffic circulation problems to Scenic Road, the proposed project will expand the parking intrusion problem into the surrounding neighborhoods.

Ironically, one of the drawbacks to improving the beach too much is that we may be inviting increasing numbers of tourists to use the beach. It is one thing to protect and landscape the beach, but quite another to provide the amenities advocated by the Beach Task Force, including five new stairways, nine wash-off areas, new and increased numbers of signs, and additional fencing. While these improvements may be desirable in urban areas, I question whether we desire such a dramatic change in the appearance and character of Scenic Road.

The positive aspects of the project appear limited to the improved landscaping and revegetation of the bluffs, installing additional benches, and restoring the existing stairway access to the beach from Scenic Road. Perhaps these are the only real needs that should be addressed by this phase of the beach project. After all, we all share an obligation to ensure that the beach remains as unchanged and naturally beautiful as possible.

The community interests could be served by a project which further protects the beach against environmental damage, promotes the enjoyment of the beach by residents and others in a manner consistent with environmental and community needs, and maintains the natural character of the beach. Unfortunately, the proposed project does not on balance meet these criteria, and does not deserve our support nor justify its cost to the taxpayer.

Meter readers provide eyes, ears for police

By DAVID LELAND

INSTEAD OF many hands making little work, the motto in Carmel has become many eyes make for faster response to emergency situations. That is, since the California American Water Company launched "Radio Watch."

Radio Watch uses the company's 26 radio-equipped vehicles to alert police of emergency situations, such as accidents, burglaries and fires.

Thus far, the idea of additional help in the field has members of the Carmel Police Department feeling excited and grateful.

"We have everything to gain by this program and nothing to lose," said Lt. Don Fuselier, Carmel police detective. "It may save a life."

Recently, Fuselier conducted a training session with employees of Cal-Am, in hopes of alerting them to pertinent information police are looking for in an emergency call.

Mainly, Fuselier said, this entailed telling the prospective callers to keep calm so they can give the police correct information. Fuselier added that many times an untrained citizen gets excited at the scene of an accident and cannot relate cohesive details.

Thus far, Cal-Am has not assisted the Carmel police in any emergency efforts, but elsewhere on the peninsula Cal-Am drivers have already helped public safety officials.

One meter reader, Thomas Lathan, has assisted both the Seaside and Monterey police departments by being in the right place at the right time.

One instance found the Cal-Am employee chasing a man through Cannery Row. Lathan raced after the suspect and tackled him, the man was arrested for robbery.

Fuselier pointed out that the Radio Watch program is essentially for emergency calls only. Police are not expecting the Cal-Am workers to actively ferret out criminals or illegal activity.

But if it happens, so much the better.

Fuselier said, for example, if a meter reader is legitimately on a person's property and sees criminal action, they would be within their rights to report it to the police.

The police could then obtain a search warrant to follow up on the call.

For the most part, however, Fuselier expects Radio Watch to be a life-saving endeavor. Most importantly, this will help police in traffic accidents.

"A minute can make a big difference to someone who is not breathing," he said, saying many times people reporting an accident cannot get directly to a phone.

Another immediate benefit Fuselier expects from Cal-Am's participation in the community will be seen during the upcoming storm season.

Many times when ferocious winds whip off the bay, power lines are downed. It is hoped, he said, Radio Watch will be able to report these dangerous situations before citizens attempt to remove the cable and are electrocuted. This, Fuselier said, is an all too common occurrence.

Cal-Am officials said Radio Watch will be carried out throughout the company's service territory, which includes Carmel Highlands, Carmel, Pebble Beach, Pacific Grove, Monterey, Seaside, Sand City and most of Carmel Valley.

The program is being modeled after a nationwide effort by the National Association of Water Companies, which represents investor-owned water utilities serving millions of customers throughout the United States.

Currently similar programs exist in parts of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, which report conveying useful information to public safety agencies on 300 occasions during the program's first year of operation.

Locally, the vehicles will be marked with reflective Radio Watch stickers to alert the public that they are radio equipped and may provide a vital link to needed assistance, according to Linda Morris, Cal-Am spokesperson.

IN AN effort to assist public safety officials, California-American Water Co. has instigated Radio Watch, which is expected to expedite emergency response. Ray Machado,

Cal-Am worker, demonstrates how, by using his car radio, he will be able to quickly report emergencies such as accidents, burglaries and fires. (Holly McFarland photo.)

Odello property clouds issue in master plan

commissioners decided it would be easier to leave the property out completely.

The revision attempted to have the Odellos develop their land under the policies of the master plan, but not be subjected to the subdivision evaluation system or the annual allocation.

Subdivision evaluation is a merit system which rewards projects which stay within the environmental objectives of the master plan.

This, according to Commissioner Peter Cailotto of Salinas, was giving special preference to the Odellos and other developers.

"You can't make any exceptions; you can't cut any deals; you can't have any second-class citizens," he said.

But Commissioner David Hendrick of Pebble Beach disagreed, saying the planning subcommittee was simply trying to keep the Odellos in the Carmel Valley to appease both them and Silver.

"The Odello property affects the valley," he said. "We have a judge who keeps telling us that. Our feeling is that we want middle ground."

Strasser Kauffman said that she does believe the county has given the Odellos special preference, which benefits them.

"We will work with them to make sure they have a good project," she said. "They will be processed more quickly under the Carmel Valley Master Plan."

Strasser Kauffman referred to the fact that any of the agencies which currently govern the Odello land have a lengthy application process.

"I've encouraged them to come to the county with specifics," she said. "We need to talk about the future, not the past."

WITH THE exception of the Odello land, the planning commission gave unanimous approval to the remaining changes in the master plan, which will govern the valley for the next 20 years.

Highlights of these revisions include:

- A maximum of 250 additional visitor accommodation units east of Via Mallorca, including lots at Carmel Valley Ranch.

Nick Lombardo, president of the Laguna Seca Golf Club, had appealed to the commissioners to allow up to 275 visitor accommodations along his golf course.

- Restored to the master plan land owned by the Williams and Walters families, which is destined for service-oriented business.

San Francisco-based consultant, Gloria Root, had deleted this property as it did not sit on commercially-zoned land. But architect Alan Williams argued that the proposed project would not generate commercial hazards.

- With the exclusion of the Odello property, the commission opted to reduce the total 20-year buildout of the valley by 162, the number of units the Odellos proposed on their land.

With this change in mind, the ceiling for residential units now stands at 1,546 which is down 635 units from the plan which was proposed six years ago and struck down by Silver.

- Also under the revisions, senior citizen units would be subtracted from the number to determine the total buildout in the valley as well as lots of record and approved subdivisions.

It had been unclear whether senior citizen housing would be exempt from this status.

- Establish a two-year trial period for the subdivision and allocation system. After this time the commission would be required to hold public hearings to decide if revisions are needed.

Also at its Nov. 25 meeting, the board of supervisors will give final approval to the master plan's second environmental impact report.

The board gave preliminary approval at its Nov. 4 meeting. Approval of the EIR will culminate one year of preparation following the court's rejection that the previous EIR was inadequate.

Heart association gives grants

Applications are available for the 1987 Student Research Program sponsored by the American Heart Association.

Students who will be juniors or seniors in the fall of 1987 and who are enrolled in a California college or university may apply for the non-taxable, $1,500 grant. The program offers undergraduates the opportunity to work with established medical scientists for 10 weeks during the summer.

This past summer three students from the Central Mission Trails Chapter area worked in the program. They were Lorian Bloomquist of Gonzales who attends the University of California Davis; Mehra Hosseini Bozorgmehr of Santa Cruz and Ana Cristina Moura who were both seniors at University of California Santa Cruz last year. Bloomquist worked on a pacemaker tissue project at UC Davis. Bozorgmehr was involved in research of abnormalities in cardiac action at Stanford University. Moura also worked on a Stanford University research project.

Applications which are due by Dec. 12 are available at the American Heart Association, 10 San Miguel, Salinas or by phoning a request to 372-0485, 757-6221 or 688-7272.

New Carmel police officer finds city to his liking

By DAVID LELAND

ONE OF the attractions Carmel has to offer its new police patrolman, Fay Patterson, is the same thing that is enjoyed by the majority of its residents — a calm atmosphere, with a below-average level of crime.

For Patterson, 36, after 14 years on the Salinas police force, the time was right for a change. Call it a break from the stress-ridden streets of the city to the tranquil village atmosphere of Carmel.

"The move for me was right," said Patterson, who came in ahead of more than 20 applicants for the position. "I enjoy the city, it's a lot less stressful."

Patterson said since signing on with the force Oct. 6, he has only written five reports detailing problems while on patrol. When patrolling Salinas he was averaging "between six and 10" reports each shift.

An added bonus for Patterson, while driving the deserted streets of Carmel on the graveyard shift, is occasionally seeing his twin brother, Ray, a 14-year veteran of the Monterey County Sheriff's Department. Since Ray works Carmel Valley, their paths cross from time to time.

Both the Pattersons are following a family tradition. Their father was in law enforcement for almost 40 years.

Patterson believes the experience gained by working on motorcycle patrol and the SWAT team in Salinas has a positive side which he can apply to Carmel.

He illustrated this by telling of a young woman who was causing a problem at a private residence. Shortly after he joined the Carmel police. With his experience dealing with suspects under drugged behavior in Salinas, Patterson was able to ascertain that the woman was under the influence of cocaine, which led to an arrest.

PATTERSON'S MOST fond memories of Salinas are not of the streets, but of the one year he spent as school resource officer, acting as a liaison between school and police, at North Salinas High School.

He added that while on the school grounds he usually wore civilian clothes, except "once every two weeks" when he would wear his uniform to remind the youngsters that he was a police officer.

It is this type of work which Patterson said he would enjoy continuing while at work in Carmel, but would like to spend time with elementary or middle school age groups.

"By the time they get to high school they've made their choices," he said.

But for sheer excitement, it's the Police Olympics, an event Patterson has participated in for the past 12 years. This brings a smile to his face.

For the 6-foot-3-inch Patterson, it is the high jump which has brought him the most notoriety. He has never placed lower than third and, in 1982, set the world's Police Olympic record in the senior class high jump by jumping 6-feet-2-inches.

This is not to say Patterson spends all his waking hours off duty training for this event. In fact, it's just the opposite.

"I never train," he said. "I never see a track or a high jump pit until the day of the event."

While Patterson has travelled to Texas and Arizona to compete in 1982 and 1984, he is currently trying to figure out a way to get to the 1988 Police Olympics in Sydney, Australia.

"That's my dream," he said.

For the time being, Patterson has chosen to remain living in Salinas and commute to work daily, saying it gives him a chance to unwind.

But for Patterson it is probably more than unwinding that is going on during the 35-minute drive home. It would appear that there is also a lot of gratitude for getting a much-deserved rest.

Carmel High rummage sale set for Nov. 22

CARMEL HIGH School will hold a rummage sale Saturday to benefit Polio Plus, a campaign initiated by Rotary Clubs of the Monterey Peninsula.

The sale will be held from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 22 at Carmel High.

Rotary Clubs, working with local schools and other organizations, hope to raise $75,000 by Thanksgiving to buy polio vaccine for children in Third World and other developing countries.

NEWLY-HIRED Carmel police patrolman, Fay Patterson, says he is looking forward to the relaxed atmosphere of the village, a welcome sight after 14 years on the Salinas police force. It appears that Patterson's expectations are being met, in his first month of duty he has only written six arrest reports — which was all in a day's work on his previous job. (Mac McDonald photo.)

FOR DEREK Moulaison, Middle School eight-grader (above), the School Pride Project last week was a time for grim determination. About 160 students took part in the project, which involved clearing ground, planting bulbs, digging ditches and scraping paint off benches. A grimy Keren Robertson (right), also joined the work team and planted colingulas around the school flag pole. Money saved from hiring manpower will go towards school projects. Big plans

ORGANIZERS ESTIMATE that more than 700 people attended the Carmel Youth Center's Garden Party Saturday to help launch a drive to renovate the center, which has been a pet project for Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood. Free popcorn, dollar hamburgers, pizza and 25-cent drinks were the order of the day as Carmel Youth Council members and other volunteers guided visitors through the center. At each area to be renovated, the students set up design plans for the renovation, all donated by local residents. Here (from left to right), Tom Faia, adult rep to the youth council; Beth Kastrop, new city recreation director; and Jeff Bell, youth center director, peruse plans for the back lawn area, which will include barbecue pits and a hot tub. Anonymous donor hands over 10-acre parcel in Big Sur

A SCENIC 10-acre Big Sur property has been donated anonymously as open space to the Big Sur Land Trust.

The donor has owned the property for several years, said Brian Steen, executive director of the land trust, and had initially planned to develop a one-of-a-kind house on it, but instead decided best use of the property was to leave it in its natural state.

Located on a grassy ridge above the Ventana Inn, the 10-acre property is considered to be a viewshed property, as it can be clearly seen from Highway 1 and other public viewing points. However, a 1981 development permit was granted by the California Coastal Commission in a controversial decision that allowed the first mechanized access to property in Big Sur.

A 300-foot electric funicular, or tramway, was approved to run through the forested part of the property as a preferred alternative to a potentially dangerous and damaging vehicular road. Building materials would have been brought in by helicopter.

"To have this property preserved is gratifying in many ways, particularly since it borders a 157-acre property protected through the land trust with a scenic easement granted by entertainer Johnny River in 1981," said Steen. "Because it is surrounded by private land, public access to the parcel will not be available. However, it is visible from many points along Highway 1, and now, thanks to the donor's generosity, will remain unspoiled."

Planners OK liquor sales, but reject change in hours

Ramsey told Roberts that they planned to have an in-house linen service and a pick-up and delivery person for other errands. Dahlstrand added he felt that it was "pretty much self-contained" operation and, in fact, would probably decrease the traffic in the area.

However, the commission on the whole agreed with the staff recommendation that more information would be needed to decide the density question and unanimously voted to continue the application.

• It was tow trucks versus the residents during an appeal of a decision by the planning department that operating a tow truck from a residential home was not an appropriate business for that district.

Neighbors in the vicinity of Eighth Avenue between Mountain View and Santa Fe streets had written numerous letters complaining about the noise generated by and unsightly presence of the truck.

The truck is a part of the American Automobile Association emergency service run by the Chevron station on Junipero Avenue. (The Carmel Pine Cone previously incorrectly identified the truck as from the Mobil station on the corner of Seventh Avenue and San Carlos Street.)

Attorney Mike Antonovich, representing the station, told the commission the truck needed to be parked at the home to cut down on response time in an emergency. Station manager Dave Marshall said the truck had been operated out of residential neighborhoods for at least 30 years.

However, Roberts, a policy rare a tow truck is needed that quickly and "even the fire department has the good sense to park its truck in the fire station."

The commission voted unanimously against finding that the tow truck was a business acceptable in the residential district.

• An appeal by Edward Lohman of the Lynn Lupetti Gallery on Sixth Avenue between Lincoln and Dolores street to allow the gallery to show more than Lupetti's works was denied by the commission. The commissioners voted that there was no new facts on which to base the appeal.

The use permit was granted by the previous planning commission approximately a year ago with the conditions that Lupetti use the gallery as a studio and only 10 percent of the works shown in the gallery could be by other artists.

Lohman said he wanted to have artists working in the studio, but it was difficult for his wife, Lupetti, to work when constantly interrupted. But his greatest concern was that she could not paint enough to keep the gallery walls filled because her works sold so quickly.

Dahlstrand, however, said "I sympathize with the problem, but this is just another one of the appeals we are getting and will be getting to overrule the previous planning commission's decision."

Since an appeal must be based on facts not available at the time the use permit was granted, and there were none in this case, Dahlstrand said he did not feel they should even hear the case.

The former planning commission set the conditions as a part of an agreement between the previous owner of the location, Bill Hill of New Masters Gallery, when he moved his business into Cottage Row. By moving into the newly-finished location, Hill created another gallery space which the commission allowed only if the old space would not become a brokerage gallery again.

Lupetti and Lohman applied to have an artist-in-residence gallery which would show only her works and were granted the permit because it was the type of art gallery the commission wanted to encourage.

Special specialists

SQUEALS of delight emanate from Room 17 at Carmel River School. Upon entering the classroom, one finds several children enthusiastically giving commands to a robot.

Barbara Weingarten, speech and language specialist, utilizes robotics and computers as instructional tools to motivate her students and enhance her educational program. A self-proclaimed "techie," Weingarten has researched current educational technology extensively to hone her instructional skills. She has served as a guest speaker at several computer conventions and has been instrumental in building the computer education program at our school. As a result of her efforts, there is a computer in every classroom. Barbara has provided staff in-service in the computer as an educational tool, and is currently serving as chairperson of the CUSD Educational Technology Committee.

Berta Bender is another member of our Resource Specialist Department. Working with small groups of children with special academic needs, she provides a direct instruction program which is most effective. Berta is the author of several articles published in national special education periodicals. Knowledgeable, witty and positive with students, Bender is an asset to our River School staff.

Our music program has several facets. Taught by Bill Purdy, classroom music is enjoyed by all of the students on a weekly basis. This program consists of singing and music appreciation. Instruction in recorders is provided to third-grade students, and fourth- and fifth-graders participate in the instructional music program. In addition, Purdy also teaches chorus to interested fourth- and fifth-grade students. A pleasant and gentle man, Bill Purdy enriches the lives of all those he touches.

CARMEL RIVER WATER NEWS

BY HENRIETTA STERN

A shocking story

IT'S A sunny morning in Carmel Valley, a perfect day to enjoy the river. You and your friends dart from place to place, play hide and seek behind rocks and laze in the shade of an overhanging willow when things get too hot. Food is plentiful, the gurgling of the river makes a wonderful sound...it's another day in paradise.

Suddenly, a paralyzing electric current streaks through the water. ZAP! You lie there stunned and helpless, your body immobilized by the power of this unseen force. And then, it's over. Slowly, a bit tentatively at first, you wriggle your body to make sure all the parts are there. Everything seems OK and you resume frolicking with your fellows. Caught up in the day's revelry, you soon forget the gripping events of the morning.

Sound like a bad dream ripe for Jungian analysis? Actually it's a true story experienced by thousands...thousands of fish, that is! Steelhead trout to be exact. The guys with the "electrifying" personalities are none other than California Department of Fish and Game (CDFG) personnel conducting their annual fish counts of juvenile steelhead on the Carmel River.

Ever try to count active fish in a natural setting? You're lucky to get a shadowy glimpse of one silently slipping by. That's where "electroshocking" comes in. It stuns the fish so they can be counted, measured, weighed and inspected for general health before swimming merrily away.

There's some good news for all of us in this story! Since 1983 CDFG has counted young steelhead in the Carmel River at Tularcitos Creek and the Boronda Bridge. They've estimated between 5,000 and 7,000 youngsters per mile each October. This year estimates exceeded 150,000 fish per mile at the Boronda Bridge! These fish were also much larger than expected, which increases their chances of survival when they head out to sea next spring.

This big improvement is brought about by several factors. First, we had a nice wet year in 1983, which enhances spawning. Thus we'd expect more fish returning to the Carmel River in winter 1986. Their offspring are the fish that were counted in October. Second, the water management district's Ordinance 19 and an agreement between the CDFG and Cal-Am has increased the amount of water in the Boronda area. Also we had a late winter in 1986 which kept the river flowing longer.

The district is pleased at this turn of events as it demonstrates that our Ordinance 19 is working. Ordinance 19 limits the amount of water that can be diverted directly from the San Clemente Reservoir to 35 percent of total production. It increases the amount of water that flows downstream to be recaptured by wells in the lower Carmel Valley. This method is more expensive, but provides multiple benefits to residents and the environment along the way. The water flowing downstream irrigates cottonwoods and willows that stabilize river banks, control erosion, provide shade, and create a healthy habitat for fish and other creatures.

Another positive finding is that steelhead will migrate into a once-poor habitat, if it is restored. Last October the Boronda area was bone dry (with no fish, needless to say). This year it supported thousands of young steelhead due to the increased flows and healthy riparian vegetation. Thus the district's habitat restoration programs, such as willow planting and erosion control projects, could greatly enhance the steelhead populations in the river. And that's a good fish story for everyone.

(Editor's Note: The Carmel River Water News is a bi-weekly column written by Monterey Peninsula Water Management District staff. Its purpose is to inform Pine Cone readers about district activities relating to the Carmel River and its environs. CANDY CANES TO BRING CHRISTMAS CHEER

Residents of the Monterey Peninsula, and particularly Carmel, are invited to help provide welcome Christmas holiday cheer for lonely senior citizens and for women and children victims of domestic violence.

The invitation is extended by the Carmel Board of Realtors, which is once again sponsoring its popular Christmas Candy Cane project, along with the cooperation of Carmel-area banks and savings and loan firms.

The gifts gathered during the Christmas season project will be distributed by the Carmel Foundation, and by the YWCA Shelter for Battered Women and their Children.

Realtors are now canvassing banks and savings and loans and a complete list of firms cooperating in the project will be announced shortly.

Here's how it works: gaily decorated trees will be set up in each bank and savings and loan along with small candy canes bearing tags. Each tag will suggest a modest gift to be purchased, wrapped, and left at the institution for pickup by Friday, Dec. 19.

In addition, baskets of candy canes will be placed in real estate offices located in high-traffic areas of Carmel.

Gifts for seniors may include such items as stationery, stamps, coffee mugs and household items, while gifts for battered women and children may include toilet articles and toys.

All too often, the victims of domestic violence must flee their homes abruptly, taking nothing with them. Both lonely seniors and battered women and children face the prospect of a bleak Christmas without the cheerful gift items provided through the Candy Cane Project.

The project is now in its fourth year. Last year, generous citizens donated several hundred gifts which were gratefully received and distributed in time to brighten the holiday for scores of less fortunate Monterey Peninsula residents.

The Carmel Board of Realtors is also cooperating with the Monterey Peninsula Board of Realtors in the Christmas CanTree drive to collect 100,000 cans of food for the Salvation Army and its program to feed the hungry.

For more information call Lee Goodenough at 624-0136.

CANTREE COLLECTION BOXES IN PLACE THROUGHOUT PENINSULA

The Christmas CanTree drive, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula and Carmel boards of realtors, got into high gear Nov. 10 with the placing of collection boxes in eight peninsula communities.

The purpose of the drive is to collect cans of food, which will then be turned over to the Salvation Army for its program of feeding the hungry. All peninsula residents are urged to help bring some Christmas cheer to the needy.

The goal for the Monterey Peninsula is 100,000 cans, 5 percent of the state-wide goal of two million cans.

The canned foods may be brought to a collection box at a realtor office, or to a participating local business. For those who would like to donate money, a check may be sent payable to the Monterey Peninsula Board of Realtors, P.O. Box 108, Monterey, CA 93940. The check should be marked

NEW DIRECTORY PUBLISHED

The Peninsula Directory Company has recently compiled and delivered a very up-to-date and comprehensive directory. The information is gathered from Carmel, Monterey, Pacific Grove, Seaside, Pebble Beach and Del Monte.

An interesting fact in connection with this work is that the population of a locality is based on the multiplication of the number of heads of houses by 2½. According to this method of figuring Carmel has now a steady, permanent adult population of 1,250. The information in the directory was secured by means of a door to door canvass.

DEBRIS CLEARED FROM FIREHOUSE FOLLOWING COLLAPSE

Col. Hugh A. Beaton, WPA director of district No. 10, was expected in Carmel at the end of this week to conduct a personal investigation of the collapse of a portion of the second floor of the firehouse here last Saturday morning. WPA officials have indicated that the agency would assume, with the sponsor, the City of Carmel, responsibility for the accident, causes of which have not yet been ascertained. No official statement could be given pending the arrival of Col. Beaton.

A heap of tangled wreckage, masses of soft cement, timber props and forms, with twisted steel reinforcing rods protruding crazily, are being carefully removed, not only that the working of rebuilding may begin, but in the hope of discovering some evidence of the cause of the collapse.

A wilderness park for children was suggested at the Tuesday meeting of the city's recreation commission.

Commissioner Gyla Smith proposed that two wooded acres south of the city tennis courts be cleared of poison oak, dead trees and broken glass so that children might have free access to one of Carmel's few forest areas located along Camino del Monte north of Perry Newberry Park, recently dedicated for adult recreation.

Mrs. Smith and Police Chief Clyde

Klaumann were appointed a committee to study the proposal by Chairman August Nieto.

EDITORIAL THE SALE OF LIQUOR

Liquor has played an illustrious part in Carmel's history, from the early days of deed restrictions and bootleggers to the plethora of restaurants with full bars existing today.

The control of liquor licenses has become more cropped up as a concern of the city's planners. But, though the concern is evident, the method of implementation is not. The number of liquor licenses issued is not under the city control. The state of California handles that. The city can require certain conditions prior to approval of licenses, but these conditions do not restrict the sale of liquor, only the manner in which it is sold. The city can and has limited the location of "bars" to a portion of the commercial district. But, as one quick tour of the business area will show, limiting the location of bars does not limit sales of liquor.

While we do not object to the sale of liquor in virtually any form, it is apparent that Carmel has become quite a drinking town. The question is how much of an effect will that image have on our future. Do we attract visitors because the booze is plentiful and free-flowing or is that merely an added inducement for staying in town?

We don't feel the situation has yet reached proportions that call for panic, but, at the same time, we don't feel that control of liquor sales should be ignored.

GRIFFIN'S NAME IS "MUD" TO NEIGHBORS

Merv Griffin may be a lovable, entertaining personality to millions of television viewers, but to some of his neighbors in Carmel Valley his name is mud.

In fact, that's exactly what oozed down the hillside in Hitchcock Canyon this week from Merv Griffin's property and part of others' land.

The situation was believed to be from a vineyard under construction since last March on Griffin's ranch off Hitchcock Road. Recent rain storms evidently washed the sand and adobe down a 500-foot ravine onto adjacent properties.

CARMEL VOICE

By Sam Salerno

What's happening at Pebble Beach?

WE UNDERSTAND that Pierre Bain (a fixture at Club XIX) has departed and is now with Fandango Restaurant in Pacific Grove. And whose idea was it to close the Beach and Tennis Club when we're coming into the holiday season with its parties, etc. at the club? It put a number of disgruntled employees out of work who are now either on unemployment, or seeking temporary work until it reopens. We have also learned through a reliable source that Bob Howell, who was the manager of the Del Monte Golf Course is filing a $1.2 million suit against the Pebble Beach Co. for being fired after working there for more than 10 years. Don't know the legal jargon, but it is going to be nasty.

NOR CAL GOLFERS COME SOUTH

Forty members of the AGA of San Francisco (Advertising Golf Association) came to town this past week for their yearly social golf event and Bob DeLuca came home the big winner. The group, comprised of media and business experts from the Bay Area, played three courses; Poppy Hills, Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, and Bayonet at Fort Ord. DeLuca tied for low net with Jim Osborne, former manager of KGO-TV in San Francisco. Both players had a net 64 for their round at Carmel Valley Country Club. Ron Keister, next year's president of the group, put the whole package together and handled it like a pro tournament director. Ron's wife, Trish accompanied him here as did her mother Virginia Carpenter who lives in Edgewater, Md. Others on hand included Mr. and Mrs. Sal Chiavino (Sal is owner of Swiss Louis Restaurant at Pier 39), Mr. and Mrs. Terry Niels (Terry is manager of the Saint Francis Hotel), Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Beattie, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Windsor, to name just a few. Incidentally, DeLuca's handicap will definitely be checked and scrutinized because of his victory!

CLINT EVEN POPULAR IN KENYA!

Dr. Felix D. Neri of Carmel, who donated $25 for a needy child in Kenya, recently received a thank you letter from the Materi Girls' Centre from Meru, Kenya from Brother John Koczka. He said that he has read about the community of Carmel with their famous mayoral election earlier this year. The Nairobi papers covered Clint's candidacy. His final question was "How's he now doing?" Hooray for the Materi Girls' Centre and their interest in Carmel!

JUST BACK FROM EUROPE

Sean Ford, who manages Paolina's in the Doud Arcade for borhter Chris, just back from Europe (a few pounds lighter) and he savors the trip and will for years to come. Sean loved the beer of Germany and those lovelies in Italy. Welcome back, Sean! You'll have to give Sam Jr. the complete details when he gets home for Thanksgiving.

QUESTION AND ANSWER TIME

(Quiz received in mail. Not responsible for its authenticity.)

Do you know who in 1923 was the: President of the largest steel company? President of the largest gas company? President of the New York Stock Exchange? Greatest wheat speculator? President of the Bank of International Settlement? Great Bear of Wall Street? Answers: The president of the largest steel company, Charles Schwab, died a pauper. The president of the largest gas company, Edward Hopson, was insane. The president of the NYSE Richard Whitney, was released from prison to die insane. The greatest wheat speculator, Arthur Cooger, died abroad insolvent. The president of the Bank of International Settlement shot himself. The greatest Bear of Wall Street, Cosabee Rivermore, died of suicide. In 1923, Gener Sarazen won the U.S. Open and PGA Tournaments. He is still playing golf today and is solvent. Conclusion: Stop worrying about business and play golf!

This letter originated in the Netherlands, and has traveled around the world to promote golf and good health.

IN TOWN VISITING

Lou Robustelli, brother of Andy, who played for the New York Giants professional football team, in to visit Pete Robotti at Hansel & Gretel. Lou is involved in sports-oriented activities. Pete has been busy getting out his holiday candy for customers around the country.

P.T. Reavis of Carmel Highlands, retired captain with TWA, delightfully surprised with a visit from three flight attendants who formerly flew with him. The attendants were Marlene Price, Vi Ming, and Cathy Gordon. Vi hails from Kansas City and Marlene and Cathy from the Los Angeles area.

MAKING THE ROUNDS

Seen at Hammerheads were Paul Lucido (now selling autos at Val Strough's under the tutelage of Eddie Randell), Peter Mangiapane, Tom Larson (who just lost his mom), Bill Thompson of Landmark, and Cal Avila. This is definitely the "in" spot in Monterey and Glenn Hammer is your genial host. Anyone who is anyone can be seen there!

Thanksgiving service set

The Christian Scientists invite the community to join with them in a special Thanksgiving Day service in gratitude to God. The service at the church, Monte Verde at Sixth, in Carmel, will begin at 10 a.m. Gratitude, testimonies of healing, prayer and singing will be the order of the day.

A special sermon, composed of passages from the Bible and accompanied by selections from Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures by church founder Mary Baker Eddy, will be read by Alan Legg and Maxine Shore, the First and Second Readers.

CARMEL YOUTH CENTER

By Jeff Bell

Living legends

I'M SURE you remember when as a child you may have daydreamed about men or women who seemed more than real. For some they may have been heroes, others perhaps villains, and others possibly just good friends.

These legends come in many shapes, such as: the policeman, the fireman, the reporter, the poet, the artist, the builder, the businessman and numerous others. It was my pleasure to have all these legends at the Carmel Youth Center garden party last Sunday.

Those who came caught a glimpse of the spirit of the youth center of old embodied in the drive and determination of the student of the '80s. I want to thank all who helped and remind you that in a child's mind you all are living legends.

The Carmel Youth Center is open from 3 to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 3 to 11 p.m. Friday, and noon to 11 p.m. on Saturday. We offer classes in baton twirling, karate, marathon running and have video games, pool, foosball ping-pong, (see David Rich for lessons in humility), and ongoing championships in each field.

In the near future the weight room will be opening soon. At the Snack Bar we still offer the "Best Hot Dog on the Planet" and "Burger for a Buck." Volunteers are always welcome, and should you be interested in the activities of the Carmel Youth Council call Tom Faia at 624-1444.

Now the question of the week: Remember chemistry class? What is NaCl 2?

Make YOUR Smile a winner!

Bonding is not a new procedure. In this, the era of holistic health, physical fitness, and "be the best you can be" mentality, bonding has come of age.

Bonding is a relatively simple procedure. A composite resin or porcelain material is added directly to the roughened enamel surface of the tooth. Usually no anesthesia is required.

Monterey imitates the 1920s

THEY USED to say in the 1920s, "Diamonds are a girl's best friend." The Monterey Sheraton certainly is one of the Monterey Rape Crisis Center's best friend. The Sheraton did it again! The staff spread a supersonic aura throughout the hotel for the benefit of the crisis center.

Hundreds came to the Cotton Club to prove that people of all ages are ready to bring back the carefree days of the flapper era and the escapism of the '30s. The young and not-so-young, most in colorful costumes, were greeted by costumed doormen. Inside fringed flappers were masquerading as desk clerks.

The Nick Williams Trio played all evening in The Speakeasy (on the mezzanine). On one side were food tables with a huge marlin ice carving and bars aplenty. On the other side was a brick tenement wall. The revelers passed a backalley bum with an empty booze bottle asleep by a garbage can, lamp posts, and then were scrutinized by mobsters before they entered the Cotton Club.

As guys and dolls stepped into the Cotton Club they were back in the era of bootleg booze. A bathtub, filled with gin no doubt judging from the huge bubbles, was suspended above the dance floor. Sensual jazz rhythms electrified the air as they had done in the most popular nightclub in the world in Harlem, New York.

Dancers filled the floor every time blues or jazz flowed from one of the two Mylar-draped bandstands. Taking musical turns were The Ace Hill Trio, Broadway Blues Band, Jack Stock and the Abalone Stompers, and San Fran's Caught In The Act.

Food and beverages were served by characters right out of the movie Cotton Club which was projected on screen.

KWAV Radio and Coasting magazine joined the Sheraton as sponsors in this second annual event.

GARDEN CLUB'S "HOLIDAY FANTASIES"

The weather was perfect, the topic timely, and hostesses hastened to a floral lecture-demonstration, Holiday Fantasies. Carmel-by-the-Sea Garden Club captured the creative pulse of the season when they brought in Don Morgan, nationally known floral designer from Alameda, who has given sell-out lectures at the famed Filoli in Woodside.

More than 200 guests were served coffee and sweet rolls at Carmel Mission Inn and welcomed by Garden Club president

Nini Muhs. Ruth Amonette introduced Mr. Morgan who started off with "Flower arranging should be fun. If it's a hassle, forget it." He constantly inserted humorous tidbits such as, "I taught art in high school one year. It cost me more in Scotch than I made."

Mr. Morgan's creative stimulus, mixed with his casual humor, won not only attention but hearts as well. Some of his suggestions included: "You have to be a scavenger to be a flower arranger...tell your gardener 'don't throw away anything'...Use one color at a time, it works better...Reds, purples and blues don't work as well at night...Yellow goes anywhere with anything."

Jean Mitchell was event chair and Gail Factor did art work and the posters for the upbeat refreshing morning event.

COAST GALLERY OPENS AT THE LODGE

Just outside the stunning 'window of Loet Vanderveen bronze animal sculptures champagne and hot food trays welcomed guests to the Coast Gallery Reception.

Greeting guests were gallery owners Mr. and Mrs. Gary Koepfel of Carmel and gallery managing director, Anne Morse of Carmel Valley.

Loet, who works in Big Sur, finds inspiration for his sleek wildlife bronzes on safaris to Africa and China.

Watercolorist Mary Titus of Carmel was the other featured artist for the grand opening show. Mary said, "I have painted since I was a small child and I love doing it. I am self-taught and find my pebblescapes just evolve before my eyes."

The Koepfels, who own galleries in Big Sur and Maui, have produced a sophisticated setting with excellent lighting for Coast Gallery located at The Lodge in Pebble Beach.

CHRISTMAS FAIRS

Friends of Hospice always offer super items at their Christmas Fair and last weekend they more than lived up to expectations. Not only did they have unusual items for sale but they served breakfast, lunch and wine (donated by Chateau Julien.) Two children's choirs created the Christmas spirit in San Carlos Hall and Gordon Duffy piano music inspired shopping.

General chair was Audrey Schrader and co-chair was Julia Puleo.

Billed as profits-for-the-non-profits The Community Store presented Christmas-By-The-Bay-Bazaar last weekend in Del Monte Shopping Center. June Duran, president of the Clark Foundation, sponsors the event so that organizations in Monterey County can take away 100 percent profits from their sales. For many agencies this is the major source of income.

Wine, cheese, hot cider and wine were served at a preview party on Friday. Gus Arriola in the Monterey Film Festival booth, came to sign his poster, he said, "I want to do all I can to make the film festival a success."

India Harrison, coordinator for the 27 participating non-profits, worked closely with Jean Darragh, manager at Del Monte Center. June Duran presented a cash award in honor of the late Mary Trittipio and a second cash award was given by Ted and Dana Calhoon. Winners from the agencies were selected by a random drawing.

BUSINESS BEAT

By Nancy Hills

Potpourri

THIS WEEK it's just a little of this and a little of that.

Probably the biggest new item coming to Carmel is Talbots, Inc. in Carmel Plaza. The East Coast clothing store is scheduled to go in early next year — which could be anywhere from January through March. At least that's the plan.

Talbots is best known here on the West Coast for its catalogues. Back east, I understand, the stores are better known.

Some of the shops that will be moved around in the Plaza to make room for the larger enterprise are Everyday is Christmas and Shirtworks. Shells of Carmel may be leaving the Plaza entirely.

• If you're looking for something different to do for the holiday spirit, try Pizazz clothing store on San Carlos between Seventh and Ocean.

They are offering, from Nov. 20 to Nov. 30, to take those sweaters you don't want, including children's, and will give you a discount on clothing in the store in return. The sweaters brought in will be donated for distribution to the needy.

A TISKET A TASKET

It's all kinds of baskets, from Super Bowl Sunday to Eat Dessert First (probably be my favorite.)

Cindi and Bob Johnston are opening Johnston & Johnston Gourmet Gifts shop on Fifth between Mission and Junipero by Thanksgiving — if they're not waylaid by the "big bad wolf" along the way. And we all know there are plenty of big bad wolves on the way to opening a small business. If the address sounds familiar, that's because it's the former location of Adam's Pot Belly Stove.

The Johnstons will sell gift baskets filled with gourmet goodies, such as cheeses, pates, vacuum-packed salmon, fruit, escargot, caviar, crackers, vegetables like white asparagus, spaghetti sauces, pasta (uncooked), Belgium chocolates and a lot more than I can't include here.

It's not a deli, Cindi Johnston explained, but mainly "theme baskets," hence the above names. The size of the basket depends on which one you buy — up to the Super Bowl Sunday, which can serve about 12 with salmon, salami, meats, crackers and what-not. All the baskets are put together by the Johnstons themselves and the food is packed so it can be shipped.

Other themes are the Pasta Lover's Basket, Holiday Basket, Midnight Snack, Jumpin' Jack Flash (all hot items.) They will offer about 15 varieties in all, Johnston said.

An added treat may be coming up in a couple of months. The Carmel Planning Commission decided to allow them to sell beer and wine — in the baskets only, so don't walk in and try to buy something like it's a liquor store.

The Johnstons moved here from Park City, Utah via Washington (the state of, that is).

LE BIJOU

Maryjane Johnson is just about ready to open her jewelry repair shop, Le Bijou, on Dolores near the corner of Fifth.

It's the former location of Ladyfingers Jewelers — which has moved to the other side of Ocean Avenue — and it has taken Johnson some time to get everything squared away, but apparently she's a plucky lass. She hopes to be open by Nov. 20 or the week of Nov. 24. The opening will be sans a watch repairperson, Johnson said, but she is looking for someone.

MOVING AROUND

Having packed up its petals, roots and leaves, Flowers, Ltd. left its eight-year location at The Lodge at Pebble Beach and moved to Carmel Rancho Center — where Brinton's is located and right next door to the former Latitude 36.

Owner Anne Patrick said she and her partner Robt (that's right) Reinkens wanted more space for their full-service florist shop. They will continue to brighten up weddings and parties and sell plants, cut flowers and deliver arrangements to the entire peninsula.

MOVING ON UP

Gary and Emma Koeppl have opened their third art gallery — Coast Gallery Pebble Beach — in the The Lodge at Pebble Beach shops. The name might be familiar to Big Sur devotees who have visited their Coast Gallery down there. Or, of course, for those jet setters, there's the gallery in Maui.

Gary Koeppl explained this latest edition to their enterprises will feature "very high quality contemporary American art" with an emphasis on marine and wildlife art works. No crafts here.

Koeppl said he's been waiting a number of years to open a strictly fine arts gallery on the peninsula, and chose Pebble Beach above all other locations.

Ann Morse will be doing the art director honors at the new location.

LANDELL LADIES

Sue Blondell, Ginna Landes and Wendy Beckett, owners of Landell Gallery on the corner of Dolores and Fifth, have left the big city and moved their entire operation here to Carmel. Actually, this happened a couple of months ago, but I missed them then. Better late than never.

Blondell told me that they had offices and a showroom in San Francisco, but decided that they needed to be closer to this gallery, which has been in Carmel for three years.

Both Blondell and Landes are artists, but they don't show in their exclusively abstract art gallery. Both are mural painters as well as hand painting anything from pillows to borders (any kind).

They're all now residents of Carmel Valley, so they can report to the rest of us what sunshine looks like.

HEIDI'S

Heidi Egemann is a happy woman. She's soon to open her own hair salon — appropriately called Heidi's — in The Crossroads. Target date is the "end of November" or "the latest Dec. 1."

The salon has been a dream of hers, she said, since she began regional occupation program (ROP) during high school and now at 22 — five years after getting her license as a cosmetologist — it's coming true. And that's something she is very proud of.

This salon will have a "quiet, fun atmosphere" with "up-to-date high tech but warm feeling that will cater to the clients." Hairstyling as well as manicure and pedicure will be available and all haircuts are guaranteed. She'll even give a free consultation beforehand, Egemann said.

Egemann said she plans on her business to grow, but right now the staff will consist of herself, one other hairstylist and a manicurist.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

'Gracias a Dios'

Invocation, Carmel-by-the-Sea Rotary
La Playa Hotel, Nov. 25, 1981

For the past three hundred and sixty years, Thanksgiving Day has been cherished by Americans as a civil, religious and family festival. When I was a young lad growing up near Tortilla Flat in Monterey, one of the first expressions I learned in Spanish was, "Gracias a Dios" — Thanks be to God.

To the paisanos of the Monterey Peninsula this praise was automatic, spontaneous and deeply felt. It was used in good times and in bad, in sickness and in health, in sunshine and in rain, in life and in death.

I remember greeting Juanito, an old man crippled with arthritis and almost blind. "Como estas, Juanito?" "Muy bien, Huerito, gracias a Dios."

One of the worst words in Spanish is "ingrato" or "desagradado," an ingrate, a person who is ungrateful to God and to man.

Oh Lord, we promise that we shall continue the traditions of this peninsula not only on "el ultimo jueves de Noviembre" but on every day of the year and the words of old Monterey will be ever on our lips and in our hearts "Gracias a Dios."

Recently, two of our Rotary yachtmen were caught in a heavy fog, high seas and 50-knot winds off Point Lobos. The captain, consulting his chart and compass, turned to his companion and said, "Take off your cap. I have just figured we are in the center aisle of Carmel Mission Basilica." Thank God it isn't the bar at the Mission Ranch. Amen.

Framing techniques demonstrated

The Central Coast Art Association will sponsor a demonstration of new framing methods. The presentation will be made by Denise and Steve Amato of a new Carmel gallery, Up Against the Wall.

'Homecrafters' Marketplace' transforms center

HOLIDAY SHOPPERS will have the opportunity to review creations by nearly 200 local artisans when the 16th annual Homecrafters Marketplace arrives Saturday, Nov. 22 at Sunset Center in Carmel.

HOMEBAKED GOODS, carefully constructed crafts and artwork comprise the annual Homecrafters Marketplace, returning Saturday, Nov. 22 to Sunset Center, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel.

"We're always looking for something new. We stress original designs and things that are not easy to make," explained Joan Vandervort, who is part of the seven-member team that determines which local craftspeople can fill each of the 65 spaces available at the show.

Both groups and individuals whose workmanship is deemed top quality are represented at Homecrafters Marketplace. Show hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday. In case of rain, the market will be postponed until Sunday, Nov. 23.

Visitors to Sunset Center on Saturday will be able to view Japanese folk art by Sukura, garlic braids and wreaths by Diane Polanco, flowers pressed in beveled glass by Cheri McCarty, woodcarvings by Jim Rudat, wooden reindeer by Lyn and Mike Christensen, pottery by Marjorie Timmins and dozens more media and artisans.

To be eligible for participation in Homecrafters Marketplace, the artisans cannot sell works available in Carmel stores.

Groups that will be represented this year include American Field Service, Hadassah, Monterey Peninsula Watercolor Society, Church of the Wayfarer and the Central Coast Art Association.

The event is sponsored by the City of Carmel.

Not only crafts but foodstuffs will also be represented in abundance during the sale. Visitors will have an opportunity to sample such holiday delights as whisky cakes, cannoli, Polish sausage and cheesecake. Lunch will also be served.

The marketplace is erected in the parking lot beside the Sunset Auditorium. According to Vandervort, "it always rains on Friday — it's a way of testing our faith. We've always had luck on Saturday. Only once in 16 years has it been rained out."

For additional information, contact Sunset Center, 624-3996.

WORKS BY more than 150 local artists and craftspeople will be represented at the 16th annual Homecrafters Marketplace. In case of rain, the sale will take place on Sunday.

Authors converge for local literary jam session

By MAC McDONALD

THE SCRIBES are returning to Meca.

Jessica Mitford, James Houston, Jeanne Wakatsuki Houston, Danny Santiago, Mark Dowie, Raymond Mungo, Thomas Farber and Patrick Franklin are just a few of the names who will converge on the peninsula Saturday, Nov. 22 for what may easily turn out to be "The" literary event of recent years.

Back in the "old days" the Monterey Peninsula attracted writers like John Steinbeck, Robinson Jeffers, Robert Louis Stevenson, Jack London and George Sterling. They were attracted by not only the beauty and solitude of the coast, but by an inspiring and intellectual Bohemia that proved nurturing to these bold individualists. A bottle of cheap red wine and a place to congregate was all these iconoclasts needed to form their own ragged versions of the Round Table.

Now the scribes are at it again with the inaugural 1986 Writers' Jamboree, a wine and hors d'oeuvres party and book signing set for 7 to 10 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 22 at the Thunderbird Bookshop in The Barnyard at the mouth of the valley. The evening party will be preceded by two writers' seminars, "Writing for Love and Money" at 1 p.m., and "Lit Biz, the Business of Literature" at 3 p.m. Both will be presented in the offices of Monterey Life magazine, 604 Munras Ave. above Jose's Mexican Restaurant in Monterey.

The jamboree is the brainchild of Ray Mungo, author of eight books and editor of the peninsula-based magazine Creative States.

"We believe in the Monterey Peninsula's famed tradition as a literary center of the world," said Mungo, whose own books range from tales of the counter-culture of the '60s (Famous Long Ago) to baseball (Confessions from Left Field). "The Writers' Jamboree is meant to restore us to the glory of the days of Steinbeck and Robinson Jeffers."

With that in mind Mungo (and his co-conspirators at Creative States) set about to organize a literary event that would not only be informative, but fun.

"It'll be a little bit on the wild side...I hope," Mungo said, laughing. "I like the name (jamboree) because it sounded fun. It'll be more fun than your usual literary seminar or writers' conference where people sit around and talk about their deathless prose."

"We wanted to get wild and fall down-dancing and not stand around and discuss Proust."

The idea originated to raise funds for Creative States, a non-profit Carmel-based literary magazine with a national circulation that has featured writers like Kurt Vonnegut and Tom Robbins. It followed that a literary event would be ideal to raise money for a literary magazine, Mungo said.

He added that he wanted to expand on the writers' event that the All Saints' School sponsored at the Thunderbird every year, but he wanted to add writers and editors of well-known books and magazines from around the country instead of limiting it to only published writers living on the peninsula as the All Saints' event called for.

In that way the event would not only be a social event, but a "helpful, practical kind of thing" for writers and aspiring writers.

The idea blossomed into what Mungo now calls a "crazy thing" and an "all-day extravaganza" when Monterey Life editor

George Fuller suggested he add a couple of writers' seminars while others offered the sponsorship of the Monterey Plaza Hotel, Monterey Sheraton, and Buena Vista, Hacienda, Monterey Vineyard and Korbel wineries.

Heading the list of writers (Mungo promises a few surprise guests) is best-selling author Jessica Mitford, whose The American Way of Death exposed corruption and overpricing in the American funeral industry.

Also attending will be Mark Dowie, editor of Mother Jones magazine; James and Jeanne Wakatsuki Houston, co-authors of Farewell to Manzanar; Danny Santiago, author of Famous All Over Town soon to be a major motion picture directed by Jonathan Demme (Stop Making Sense, Melvin and Howard and the just-released Something Wild); Thomas Farber, author of Curves of Pursuit and Who Wrote the Book of Love?; as well as writers and editors for Community Spirit, San Francisco Focus, Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Chronicle, Playboy, Rolling Stone, Image, San Jose Mercury News etc.

County symphony series set Nov. 23-25

Award-winning cellist to solo

CELLIST NATHANIEL Rosen will be featured soloist with the Monterey County Symphony in concerts in Monterey, Carmel and Salinas Sunday through Tuesday Nov. 23, 24, 25 under the baton of Clark E. Suttle, music director and conductor.

Rosen gained recognition in America when in 1977 he became the first cellist to win the Walter W. Naumburg Competition and global recognition in 1978 when he became the first American cellist to win the Tchaikovsky International Competition's Gold Medal.

Since that time, audiences, throughout

NATHANIEL ROSEN, award-winning cellist, joins the Monterey County Symphony during its Nov. 23-25 concert series.

North American, Central America, Europe and Asia have had the opportunity to hear Rosen in recital and with many of the world's orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia Orchestra, London Symphony, Dresden State Orchestra, L'Orchestre de La Suisse Romande, Czech Philharmonic, Los Angeles Philharmonic, Minnesota Orchestra, Cincinnati Symphony, Dallas Symphony, Houston Symphony, and on National PBS Television with the Pittsburgh Symphony and the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Rosen began studying the cello at the age of 6 with Eleonore Schoenfeld in his native California. Seven years later, while participating in the Coleman Chamber Music Auditions, he met the legendary Gregor Piatigorsky, who soon became his teacher and mentor. By the age of 22, Rosen became Piatigorsky's assistant, a post he retained until the master's death in 1976.

At the age of 17, Nathaniel Rosen toured the Soviet Union as a finalist in the Third International Tchaikovsky Competition, where he was the youngest competitor among 42 cellists and one of three Americans to receive a prize. He returned to Moscow 12 years later (1978) and became the first American Gold medalist since Van Cliburn (1958).

Rosen made his New York debut in 1970 as winner of the Piatigorsky Award of the New York Violoncello Society. A Martha Baird Rockefeller Grant made possible an Alice Tully Hall concert in 1976, where Rosen premiered a work by William Kraft.

As the 1977 Naumburg winner, Rosen was presented in recital at Alice Tully Hall in both the fall of 1977 and 1978. Other career highlights include two seasons as principal cellist of the Pittsburgh Symphony, associations with Music from Marlboro and the popular Monday Evening concerts in Los Angeles, and, while principal cellist of the Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra, he gave the premiere performances of Robert Linn's Concerto for Cello and Chamber Orchestra.

commissioned by Neville Marriner.

Rosen has appeared on NBC's Today Show and The Mike Douglas Show. He performed as soloist on PBS with "Previn and the Pittsburgh" in Strauss' Don Quixote and in Mozart's G Minor Quartet with Isaac Stern, Pinchas Zukerman and Andre Previn, and also on PBS with the Boston Pops and John Williams, playing Tchaikovsky's Rococo Variations.

Rosen's recordings include the J.S. Bach Gamba Sonatas with Anthony Newman (Vox Cum Laude), Tchaikovsky Piano Trio with Elmar Oliveira and Mikhail Pletnyov (CBS),

On Thursday, Nov. 27, as they host a benefit dinner Thanksgiving will be for senior citizens and the celebrated by Simic Galleries needy.

AT THE CHERRY FOUNDATION

By Linda Coppens

Young artists celebrated

THIS MONTH we are celebrating our young local artists. On Nov. 8, five pianists participated in our annual Leon Panetta Young Peoples' Concert. Performing were 16-year-old Paul St. Amour and 5-year-old Emily Lurie.

Paul gave his Debussy a wonderful impressionistic shimmer, and Emily's technique was astonishing for such a young musician. Joining them, Congressman Leon Panetta took time out from his busy campaign schedule to play Bach, Beethoven and Chopin.

Lyn and Renee Bronson — well-known performers, and teachers of Emily and Paul — rounded out the concert. Renee's Scriabin was impressive, and Lyn's Gattschalk ended the event on a light and amusing note.

A special part of the afternoon was the presentation of a bust of the Congressman by local sculptor Anton Ara Bia.

Our other tribute to young artists is an exhibit of art by peninsula high school students from Carmel, Seaside and Pacific Grove. We have much local talent here! Worthy of special mention are "Dark Angel" by Bernadette Soares, "Motif No.1" and "No.2" by Jason Flanders and untitled works by Brenda Dies and Martin Broenkow.

The exhibit will run through Saturday, Nov. 29. Please stop by, this is worth the trip.

Mario Simic, owner and president of the galleries, invites those who are alone on Thanksgiving Day to join him for a turkey dinner with all the trimmings at the Church of the Wayfarer, Lincoln and Seventh, Carmel.

The dinner is limited to the first 500 persons who call for reservations and to persons who live on the Monterey Peninsula. The meal will be served from 1 to 4 p.m.

Those who wish to attend but do not have transportation can receive rides by calling the gallery. Your Maitre d' of Carmel is donating its limousines and catering service.

Fully catered by volunteers, this Thanksgiving dinner will be set up in the downstairs reception hall at the church.

Gallery owner Mario Simic also sponsors a Thanksgiving Day dinner in La Jolla, site of another Simic gallery.

Reservations should be made before Wednesday, Nov. 26. To make them, call Mary Piazza at 624-7522.

HOW CARMELITES SAW IN DARK

While Carmel still has few street lights outside the business district, there were none at all in the early days. Residents out at night used to find their way with a peculiarly local lantern made of a punctured soup can with a candle fastened inside.

Dodge signs 'Carmel: The Puzzle'

CARMEL FOLK ARTIST Bill W. Dodge will autograph his latest published work, "Carmel: The Puzzle," at the Game Gallery on Ocean Avenue. The puzzle signing will take place 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 22. A replica of Dodge's Carmel poster published earlier this year, the jigsaw puzzle features hostilities, noted restaurants, Carmel beach and other village landmarks. (John Livingstone photo).

Medical panel to focus on panic prevention

A panel of three psychiatrists will discuss "Anxiety, Panic and Phobic Disorders: Current Treatments" at a community health forum from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 22 in the Main Conference Room at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

The panelists are Dr. Frederick Ziegler, director of the Community Hospital Mental Health Center; Dr. Eric Jacobson, director of crisis, inpatient and day treatment programs at the Mental Health Center; and Dr. Walton Roth, professor of psychiatry at Stanford University.

Discussion will cover psychotherapy, relaxation exercises and old and new medications. The forum is open to the public without charge, but early arrival is recommended because seating is limited.

THEATER REVIEW

By Joanne Tenenbaum

MPC stages 'Marriage of Bette and Boo'

THE MARRIAGE OF Bette and Boo, currently onstage at Monterey Peninsula College's SRO Theater, is a wonderfully surreal play, the more so for its mixture of the commonplace and the surreal.

The events of Bette and Boo are orchestrated by Matt Hedlocke, played with appealing earnestness by Eddie Wallace. Matt's expressed purpose is to examine the everyday details of his family's past, much as one examines literature. Matt's scholarly disquisition soon gives way to live action, as his parents, Bette and Boo, and their families materialize onstage to act out the events Matt introduces. But not exactly.

What we see are the events as Matt remembers them or has been told them. And therein lies the surreal. Events that took place in Matt's early childhood are reenacted from a child's point of view. Thus 12-year-old Matt, forced to testify at his parent's divorce hearing, is questioned by a lawyer not one of whose words is intelligible — to him or to us.

As Matt introduces events closer to his adulthood, his perspective changes, and the characters change too, becoming less comically one-dimensional and correspondingly more poignant. Along the way, there is a great deal of viciously funny material.

Bette (Vivian Nesbitt) and Boo's personal drama revolves around the presence of the Rh factor, which outwits Bette's four attempts to bear children subsequent to Matt; the family's Roman Catholic background and Boo's drinking problem, with which Bette is obsessed. Little Matt is understandably lost in the obsessive shuffle. In most of the early events he calls forth, we see him as a serious miniature grownup, leaned on too heavily by his mother, and called on constantly to handle his parents' responsibilities.

Boo (Joel Shain) wanders through the play, cowed by his verbally abusive father and bullied by Bette, while Bette nags him to stop drinking and to help make more babies. When none of the family's problems seems resolvable, Bette retreats into prayer and happy girlhood memories.

Durang's surreal tone is made clearest in the character of the family priest, a wisecracker in hightop sneakers who enlivens a religious retreat on marriage with an impersonation of bacon frying.

"He makes a better piece of bacon than he does a priest," observes Bette's sister Joan bitterly. But the priest, engagingly played by Vincente Salazar, seems as hopelessly mired in the mores of this generation as his parishioners.

The playwright's affection for the material keeps The Marriage of Bette and Boo from sinking to melodrama. Although Matt's periodic lectures include detailed strategies for avoiding crazy people and a bitter diatribe on the wretchedness of alcoholic family holidays, his love and empathy for his stunted family is real.

Sheryl Griggs' able direction and fine ensemble performances by a strong cast make The Marriage of Bette and Boo a hot item on the current list of theater attractions. But don't lollygag. This weekend's three 8 p.m. performances end the play's brief run.

Member of the wedding

THE CLASSIC wedding pose is maintained by Bette (Vivian Nesbitt) and Boo (Joel Shain). The only jarring note is the presence of their son, Matt (Eddie Wallace).

ON STAGE

Candida

A champagne finale will highlight the final performance of George Bernard Shaw's Candida by The Staff Players Repertory Company. Shaw's answer to A Doll's House was first presented in 1898, and supplies his view of a happy marriage and what makes it work. A young poet then appears and views the entire matter with different eyes.

Philip Clarkson portrays the Socialist preacher James Morell. His wife, Candida, is played by Manuela Shaw. The young poet, Eugene Marchbanks, is portrayed by Norman Stottmeister. Marcia Gambrell Hovick directs Candida.

Final performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Nov. 20-22 at the Indoor Forest Theater, Mountain View and Santa Rita, Carmel. Thursday and Friday tickets are $7 for adults and $5 for senior citizens and full-time students.

The Saturday, Nov. 22 closing gala will include champagne and other refreshments, and an opportunity to meet the cast. Finale tickets are $15 per person, $25 per couple. For reservations, call 624-1531.

Fifth of July is staged at 8 p.m. Ticket prices on Friday and Saturday are $7.50 general, $6 for students and persons over age 55. Virtuoso Guarneri Quartet dazzles

THE GUARNERI String Quartet, which would have to be included on any list of the top half-dozen or so quartets now playing, appeared Monday, Nov. 10 at Sunset Theater.

We tend to overuse our superlatives, saying this or that was "great," and meaning anything from what it says to "it was great that Mr. X got through that piece." Then, when we hear something truly extraordinary, we are often struck speechless. That was the way some of us felt Monday night.

In a program of Shostakovich, Beethoven and Smetana, the Guarneri demonstrated virtuosity, intensity and versatility.

The Seventh Quartet of Shostakovich is very concise. Although it exhibits the wit typical of Shostakovich, it also contains haunting and evocative melodies. The final Allegro is primarily polyphonic, with striking rhythmic and melodic unisons (as in Haydn and Beethoven).

Beethoven Op. 18, No. 6, was the classical choice. The interpretation of this quartet stressed the lyrical, Mozartean aspects of the work; it was elegant and Viennese.

Smetana's First Quartet, "From My Life," was the sole work on the second half of the program, played with warmth, great sensitivity to coloring and a precision in the rubatos that was almost unbelievable.

What makes the Guarneri Quartet stand apart from many others? What marks it as different from other, also fine, quartets?

Well...different auditors will describe different things. (Yes, Virginia, it is not only possible for persons to hear different things, it is thought by some to be desirable. Otherwise, music would be as interesting as third-grade arithmetic.)

Their sound, for one thing, is unusually refined and elegant, and this refinement is reflected in their playing. There were a few moments, most notably in the Shostakovich, which called for an extreme pianissimo, but the sound never lacked the energy necessary for projection.

Precision in rubato was mentioned before, and to this must be added the breathtaking precision in bowing. Several times, one could easily have imagined one violin playing double stop so totally synchronized was the bowing of the two violinists.

It was a lovely concert.

A NOTE ON programming and encores: Programming is an art in itself, and I have been privileged to have had some teachers over the years who tried hard to instill in us a thoughtful approach to programming. Naturally, the audience must be a primary consideration. There is a time and a place for a concert consisting solely of the 15th century Burgundian masters; there is a time and a place for the Baroque-Classical-Romantic-Contemporary program. If a program is well and thoughtfully assembled, and equally well-performed, it should be complete in itself.

The Guarneri Quartet played an encore Monday night. A generation ago, chamber music groups never played encores, but it is getting to be commonplace now. The fast movement of the Debussy Quartet is popular here, as it is (relatively) light and short. I was as contented as the proverbial cat with a bowl of cream after the concert, and the encore jarred me.

That I am in a minority is not news to me, but it is not a minority of one. There are a few other souls who support this view.

The great pianist, Artur Schnabel, never played encores. His programs tended to be very intense ("boring on both sides of the intermission," as he described them), and he simply did not feel like playing anything more. However, once he did accede. Unhappy with the way he had played a Schubert first movement, he repeated it.

Then there was the story that circulated about a pianist who played the "Goldberg Variations" of Bach as an encore. I tend to doubt the story, but it certainly would represent the performer's ultimate revenge.

And a final pedantic footnote: "encore" means again, not more.

Organ concert set in Pacific Grove

The second of five organ concerts presented by the Monarch Concert Series of the First United Methodist Church, Pacific Grove, will be presented at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 23 in the church sanctuary, Sunset and 17-Mile Drive.

Organist for this concert is Reiko Oda-Lane, a native of Japan now living in Oakland.

Individual concert tickets will be available at the door for $5.

'The Awful Truth' screened

Irene Dunne, Cary Grant and Ralph Bellamy co-star in the 1937 "screwball" comedy, The Awful Truth, the Thursday, Nov. 20 offering of Brown Bag Cinema.

The comedy has well-to-do couple Dunne and Grant splitting up over a tiny suspicion that one or both of them has been unfaithful to the other. Admission is free to the film, shown at 1 p.m. in Sunset Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel.

Everyone is invited to meet at noon on the terrace outside the Chapman Room of Sunset Center, where brown bag lunches are consumed and new friends made. Brown Baggers gather inside the Chapman Room on inclement days. Sunset Center provides the coffee, and no tickets or reservations are required.

and toasts, expand contacts, sell books to our readers and promulgate literacy in California," said Mungo, who likened the event to a "jam session for writers" which the public can attend.

The "Writing for Love and Money" seminar will feature panelists, magazine writer Marc Cooper (Playboy, Rolling Stone), Dowie, Fuller, Amy Rennert of Focus magazine and local journalist Al Goodman, co-chair of the Monterey-Santa Cruz chapter of National Writers' Union.

"Lit Biz 101, The Business of Literature," will feature Mungo, Robert Sheldon of Bookpeople, North Point Press and Creative Arts Book Co., and William Webb, a publishers' representative for Wilcher Associates.

Tickets for the evening event are $15 each ($10 for seniors and students), while the two seminars are $10 each or $15 for both. An all-day ticket for both seminars and the evening party is $25 per person. Tickets are available at Thunderbird Bookshop, Center Stage Ticketing at 649-5175, or at the door the day of the event.

PHOTOGRAPHY WEST Gallery is hosting an autograph party and exhibition honoring Brett Weston from 5 to 7 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 22.

Weston's new book entitled "Brett Weston: A Personal Selection" is his own selection of 100 of his favorite unpublished photographs. Weston served as his own editor for the edition and it displays his unique approach to the fine photograph — a mastery of craft in communicating his highly personal response to light and form.

Brett Weston began photography with the encouragement of his father, Edward Weston. Brett was precocious and had his first international exhibition at age of 17. The San Francisco Museum of Modern Art recently featured an exhibition of Weston's work comparing the first 10 years of his career with the most recent decade.

His photographs strongly relate to the flow of modernism in the other arts, comprising an intense streamlining of shapes, and the simplification of tonality into very defined darks and lights. His concentration of form and design to elemental levels echos the first abstract paintings and further developments leading to the minimalism of recent decades.

Weston has traveled widely to refresh his eye, and the illustrations from "Brett Weston: A Personal Selection" reveal his travels through Europe, the Orient and Hawaii. During the past 15 years, Weston has made the transition from the 8 by 10 camera to a smaller camera. His response to the dynamic and counter balanced compositions has been well served by the flexibility and spontaneity afforded by the lighter equipment.

The gala and booksigning will take place at Photography West Gallery located near the southeast corner of Ocean at Dolores in Carmel. For more information, call 625-1587.

Local organizations receive state arts grants

THE CALIFORNIA Arts Council, through its Organizational Grants Program, has made grants of $6,125,000 to 477 arts organizations throughout the state.

Local grants recipients are the Carmel Bach Festival, $1,000; the Friends of Photography, $5,296; the Monterey County Symphony, $6,507; and the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, $15,723.

Robert H. Reid, director of the California Arts Council, noted that "The growing number of awards reflects both the higher level of development of more arts organizations, and the increased amount of quality artistic activity taking place in California."

The Council's Organizational Grants Program is designed to develop and strengthen the artistic and administrative capabilities of small, medium and large organizations, and to make their programs available to more Californians.

Most awards, totalling $2.8 million, are made in the category of Artistic and Administrative Development, which provides grants to qualified organizations of all sizes. However, 27 grants are made in the category of Support to Prominent Organizations. These organizations have budgets of more than $1 million and are considered to be especially valued arts resources for the region in which they are established. This category includes many of the state's prominent symphonies, museums, ballet and theater companies.

All Arts Council grants are decided through a competitive application process. Ten separate panels of experts reviewed a total of 688 applications to this program, ranking each on the basis of established criteria. Funds were sufficient to make grants only to the highest ranks, with each grantee receiving a percentage of its grant request.

All Organizational Program grants are made in one of the following categories: Art Service and Presenting Organizations, Community Organizations, Dance, Interdisciplinary, Literature, Media, Music, Theater and Visual Arts.

The deadline for applying to next year's 1987-88 Organizational Grants Program for 1987-88 grants is Feb. 2, 1987. To receive an application or information on this and other Arts Council programs, contact the California Arts Council, 1901 Broadway, Suite A, Sacramento, CA 95818; phone (916) 445-1530.

The California Arts Council was established to promote artistic awareness and participation in California. It is a state agency which provides grants and technical assistance to artists and to nonprofit arts organizations. Applications are reviewed and rated by outside professional peer panels and receive final approval from the appointed 11-member council. 1986 marks the 10th anniversary of the California Arts Council.

Restaurants prepare Thanksgiving feasts

WHEN IT comes to holiday dining, there are two camps. Some would choose to summon grandmother's tattered recipes and orchestrate a Thanksgiving groaning board of baronial proportions, all beneath the relative comforts of one's own roof. And then there are those who view Thanksgiving as a blessed excuse to escape to a restaurant and leave the cooking and cleanup to others.

May both groups not merely coexist, but thrive.

The following guide is designed to serve those who would dine out on the Monterey Peninsula come Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, Nov. 27.

Carmel

"Every year we get a lot of compliments" noted the chef at The Swiss Tavern, where parties of four or more are served a whole turkey at the table. Diners can take home their dinner leftovers. Turkey dinner will be served from 3 p.m. on and includes soup, salad, roast turkey with chestnut stuffing, giblet gravy, fresh cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes, mashed potatoes and fresh vegetable. Dinner price is $13.50 per person, $7.50 for children under 10. The Swiss Tavern is located upstairs on Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth. American Express, Master Card and Visa are accepted. Reservations are required. 624-5994.

There will be four seatings Thanksgiving Day at Pine Inn, Ocean Avenue between Lincoln and Monte Verde. Dinner will be served at 1, 3:15, 5:30 and 8 p.m., and reservations are essential. The dinner will include assorted relishes, mixed nuts, poached salmon, chicken princess soup and tossed green salad, homemade biscuits and cornbread with honey butter, whipped potatoes, baby carrots and broccoli. Diners have a choice of roast tom-turkey with sage dressing, fresh cranberry sauce and candied yams or roast prime rib of beef with Yorkshire pudding. Dessert choices are pumpkin or pecan pie with whipped cream or hot mince pie with hard sauce. Coffee, tea and milk are included. Price is $17.95 for adults and $9 for children under 10. American Express, Visa and Master Card are accepted. 624-3851.

At Highlands Inn in Carmel Highlands a buffet will be served from 11:30 a.m. on. The menu will include roast New York strip steak, honey glazed ham, smoke-roasted turkey, shrimp and scallop saute, walnut/wheat dressing, mashed fresh potatoes, scalloped sweet potatoes, steamed vegetables, a variety of imported and domestic cheeses, shrimp and oysters on ice, country pate, assorted German sausages, fresh fruit, salads, pumpkin cheesecake, apple strudel, cranberry mousse and mincemeat pie. Price is $26 for adults, $13 for children. The restaurant has wheelchair access. Major credit cards accepted. Reservations advised. 624-3801.

Mission Ranch, Dolores Street near Carmel Mission, will be open 1 to 8 p.m.

Thanksgiving Day. A "soup to nuts" complete turkey dinner is $12.25 for adults, $7 for children. Other items on the menu include roast leg of lamb and baked ham. All major credit cards are accepted. For reservations, call 624-3824.

Anton and Michel, Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh, will offer traditional Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings from 1 to 9 p.m. The holiday meal is $16.50 for adults, $10.50 for children under 12. The regular menu will also be served. All major credit cards are accepted. 624-2406.

Seatings are at 3, 5 and 8 p.m. Reservations are a must. 624-0199.

In an art deco setting, diners at The Willow Tea Room will enjoy traditional roasted turkey with a maple/orange glaze, cornbread stuffing, cranberry relish, yam brulee, spinach ramekins and pumpkin or pecan pie. The Willow Tea Room is upstairs in The Crossroads, Rio Road off Highway 1, Carmel. Thanksgiving dinner will be served noon to 9 p.m. Price is $16.75 for adults. A child's portion is also available. Brunches with a thoughtful touch

It's not without reason that brunch has become such a popular pastime on the Monterey Peninsula. Many of the area's finest restaurants boast patios for outdoor dining and striking views of Monterey Bay that can only be enjoyed fully during the day.

Views of Santa Cruz from the Monterey Peninsula? It's possible during Sunday brunch at Cafe Belvedere, housed in a sky-high location atop Ford's Department Store in Pacific Grove. Enjoy breathtaking vistas of the Monterey Bay while savoring such brunch specialties as frittata, Italian omelette, as well as blintzes, Hangtown Fry for oyster lovers, Pennsylvania Scrapple and other uncommon choices. Most entrees are priced at less than $5. Cafe Belvedere is at Lighthouse and Fountain. Brunch hours are from 10 a.m. daily, from noon on Sundays. 372-7131, ext. 222.

Brunch at The Rogue is served from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Enjoy the beautiful view of the Monterey Yacht Harbor at the marina, Wharf No. 2 in Monterey while dining on fresh seafood specialties, seasonal produce and quality beef. Try the world-famous chowders, the fresh poached salmon, shrimp tostada, crepes Monterey or create your own omelette. The Rogue also serves fresh fruit juice and fruit in season. Prices range from $3.95 for a complete brunch. Call 372-4586.

All you can eat is the rule during the champagne buffet at Surdi's, 2030 Fremont St., Monterey. The feast is served 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. It includes an eight-ounce glass of champagne or orange juice and features a salad bar with more than 25 selections including bay shrimp, pasta salad, fresh fruits, cold meats and cheeses.

Hot buffet specialties offer several main entrees plus fried shrimp, eggs Florentine, quiche Lorraine, baked ham and pizza. To top it off, visit the "all you can eat" dessert buffet with pastries, eclairs and cakes. All of the above costs $8.95; children under 12, $5.45. While there, visit the new cocktail lounge. Call 646-0100.

An assortment of three-egg omelettes, from simple to crab and cheese-bedecked, can be ordered from 11 a.m. on at Bullwacker's, 653 Cannery Row in Monterey. Bullwacker's also features private dining rooms for group lunches, banquets and dinners. Call 373-1353.

Enjoy Sunday brunch overlooking the lovely courtyard at Anton & Michel, on Mission between Ocean and Seventh in Carmel. A complete brunch with a set menu is $11.50 and begins with choice of fresh orange juice, champagne, ramos fizz, mimosa, kir royale, or bloody Mary; fresh fruit cocktail followed by choice of eggs Benedict or Nova Scotia, Spanish omelette, seafood crepes, fettuccine Monterey, avocado shrimp boat, quiche maison, lobster quenelles, fried calamari or chicken chasseur; croissants, butter, jam and marmalade. Coffee, Sanka or tea included. Brunch begins at 10 a.m. and is served until 2 p.m. Call 624-2406.

Domenico's offers a sumptuous brunch and a lovely view of Monterey Bay from 10 a.m. Sunday. $7.95 to $11.95 is the price for a complete brunch featuring delicious egg dishes such as Eggs Benedict, Eggs Sardu, Eggs Monterey, seafood omelette or vegetable frittata. The Spyglass Restaurant in La Playa Hotel, Camino Real at Eighth, Carmel, serves Sunday brunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Begin with a buffet of fresh juice, fresh fruit, mini-bagels, whipped salmon mousse, cheeses and the chef's own pastries.

Entrees are then served at your table. Some of the specialties include puffed fruit pancakes, frittatas or egg entrees. Brunch is priced from $9.50 to $14.50 per person and may be enjoyed in the dining room or the lovely outdoor terrace. Call 624-4010.

The Swedish Restaurant, Dolores and Seventh in Carmel, opens daily at 8 a.m. and serves breakfast all day. Known for Swedish pancakes with lingonberries for $3.25, it also serves a special pancake filled with ham or bacon, cheese and creamed mushrooms at $3.95. There is a selection of omelettes on the menu, as well as a variety of open-face sandwiches and fresh salads. Beer and house wine are available, plus desserts. The atmosphere is cozy and casual in a Swedish setting. 624-3723.

Los Laureles Lodge serves Sunday brunch from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. (also available daily). Dating back to the early 1830s, the former Rancho Los Laureles is located east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road in Carmel Valley.

DOMENICO's brings a new dimension in dining to Old Fisherman's Wharf, with the finest fresh fish and meat grilled over an open hearth on mesquite wood, and homemade fresh pasta as well. The view of the yacht harbor is delightful. One visit will confirm why everyone's talking about Domenico's!

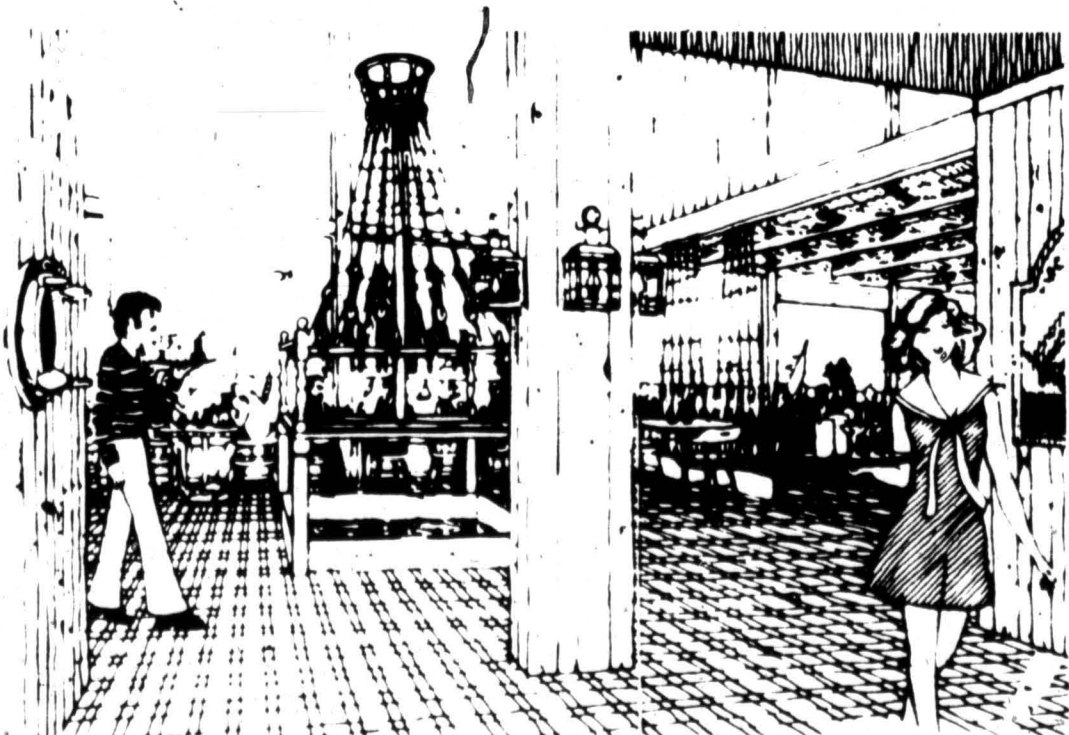

The classic eggs Benedict, omelettes and egg combinations are on the menu from $4.25 to $5.50; also salads from $5.50, a "souper" salad special at $3.50 plus a variety of hot and cold entrees. Imported and domestic beer and house wines (glass or bottle) are served. Call 659-2233.

Cannery Row Guide

Cannery Row — the street immortalized in John Steinbeck's novel and by a little silver fish — is one of the highlights of a visit to the Monterey Peninsula.

The mile-long Row curves along the shores of Monterey Bay from the Coast Guard Station to the former site of the Hovden Cannery, now home to the state-of-the-art Monterey Bay Aquarium.

"The sardine capital of the world" had humble beginnings around the turn of the century when F.E. Booth built the first fish packing plant. As the local pilchard (or sardine) became a gourmet delicacy rather than bait for salmon fishermen, demand outdistanced supply.

An Italian fisherman, Pietro Ferrante, and a Norwegian canning expert, Knut Hovden, changed the course of Cannery Row's history. Ferrante imported Italian fishing nets; Hovden modernized packing methods. The nets made it possible to scoop tons of fish with one haul.

Purse seines eventually replaced the Italian lampara nets and were capable of scooping up more fish than the smaller fishing boats could carry! World War II created a new boom for Cannery Row, which by now boasted a number of small groceries and other businesses tucked in among the canneries, as well as the biology laboratory of Ed "Doc" Ricketts.

In 1945, Cannery Row packed more than 235,000 tons of sardines in 19 operating canneries. But there were some pessimists among the fish-packing optimists — marine biologist Ed "Doc" Ricketts, among them. He warned that overfishing might destroy the entire industry.

In 1946, Cannery Row packed 142,000 tons; by 1948, only 14,000 tons were processed. And in 1951, after a brief comeback, there were no sardines at all. Doc Ricketts maintained they had all gone into cans.

As the canneries closed, they fell into ramshackle disrepair and were frequently destroyed by uncontrollable fires.

There are still enough of the hulking cannery buildings, however, and the overpasses that cross Cannery Row, to retain the flavor, if not the aroma, of the past. That the canneries now house restaurants and art galleries makes them all the more accessible and interesting; after all, who would visit a sardine packing plant?

The shorefront restaurants offer fine food and a view of the still-abundant wildlife of the bay — sea otters frolicking in the kelp beds, gulls of all kinds, pelicans, sleek seals and sea lions and even skin divers on their bobbing yellow rafts.

No longer is Cannery Row deserted after dark. Now there are bright lights, laughter and the sound of music. Visitors can enjoy a variety of entertainment in restaurant cocktail lounges and there are several spots that offer dancing to live music.

ONCE KNOWN as "The Sardine Capital of the World," Monterey's Cannery Row is now home to restaurants, shops and the world-famous Monterey
